Russian Forces Smash At East Prussia Border

Red Tanks And Infantry
Prepare To Invade Soil
Of Reich Itself

DRIVE ON KRAKAW ALSO PROGRESSING

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Gumbinnen, first large city inside East Prussia from the point where the Soviets have reached the frontier, now is under direct Russian artillery fire, the British radio reported today, CBS said.

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—Soviet tank and infantry forces smashed powerful German defenses to reach the borders of East Prussia today, repelled Nazi counterattacks, and prepared to invade the "Holy Soil" of the Third Reich itself.

The Soviet fighters drove forward along the Siusup river to reach the German frontier in western Lithuania after an arduous campaign which carried them over hundreds of miles of territory seized by the Nazis in their attack on Russia in 1941.

The Soviet high command mid-night communiqué reported that Red army units had overcome powerful German defenses and counterattacks in their smash forward to reach the borders of the Reich, and that all German resistance except for isolated pockets had been wiped out along the Siusup river.

To Borders Of Nazi Homeland

The Russian assault apparently surged to the borders of the Nazi homeland at Schirwindt, 90 miles east of the East Prussian capital of Königsburg and 42 miles southeast of the East Prussian communication hub of Tilsit.

Although Russian entry onto the territory of the Reich appeared imminent, there were no reports that Soviet assaults had yet penetrated the easternmost province of the Reich.

Other Russian forces battling across the Vistula river some 110 miles south of Warsaw were reported to be driving against Krakow, and against German Silesia, with Russian spearheads said to be only 75 miles from the Nazi frontier in that southern Poland sector.

Battle In Streets

Red army forces were last reported battling in the streets of the Nazi stronghold of Sandomerz, key to German defenses in that area, while the entire Soviet bridgehead across the Vistula there threatened an outflanking drive aimed at Warsaw from the south.

Good War Strategy Would Mean Nazis Get Out Of France

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The location of the most recent Allied landings on the French Riviera coast has surprised many observers. Those landings were made on a narrow corridor between the mountains and the sea.

Nevertheless, there was a significant strategic reason for selecting the area between Cannes and Toulon as our most recent bridgehead. Because of necessary censorship, it is inadvisable to discuss the significant strategic reasons. But certain obvious conditions can be noted. To enter France to the north or west from the French Riviera coast there are only two effective routes. One is the valley of the Rhone river going almost north into central France from the vicinity of Marseilles, and two is the valley of the Garonne from about Narbonne to Bordeaux.

Germans Should Withdraw

Bonin Islands Again Bombed By U. S. Fliers

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 18.—Disclosure of another smashing air raid against Chichi Jima, Jap base in the Bonin Islands, today underscored the increased striking power of American aerial might.

Pacific fleet headquarters, announcing the latest raid Tuesday on the Boninis only 600 miles from the Japanese homeland, revealed that big land-based Liberators of seventh army air force, bombed a seaplane base and adjacent installations on Chichi Jima, encountering anti-aircraft fire that varied from moderate to intense.

Pacific fleet headquarters also announced other air raids against Jap bases from the northern Pacific to the central Pacific and failed to mention enemy air resistance, indicating that the Jap fighter planes are taking cover in the face of American bomber formations.

Maui and Papan islands, north of conquered Saipan in the Marianas, were bombed and strafed Tuesday and in the far Kuriles, Paramushiru was hit by Liberators of the Aleutian-based 11th army air force in a pre-dawn attack Sunday. Returning fliers said attack at Paramushiru was meager.

Ventura search planes of fleet air wing two bombed plane runways on Nauru phosphate producing island west of the Gilberts, and marine Corsair fighters hit Maleolap in the Marshalls Tuesday.

Diplomats Have Fled From France

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The Tokyo radio declared in a domestic broadcast reported today by U. S. government monitors that Japanese diplomatic agents and other nationals resident in Paris had quit France for Berlin yesterday.

Reception difficulties made it impossible to record the entire broadcast, but Tokyo appeared to be telling empire audiences that Japanese also had been evacuated from other French cities and shipped to Berlin along with the contingent from Paris.

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 18.—(INS)—American troops held the town of Orleans, slightly north of Orleans, as well as Orleans itself today.

Orleans, home of Joan of Arc, is 64 miles south of Paris. The Allies also hold the towns of Guinecamp and Chardun, near Nogent. British troops smashed their way south of Falaise and hundreds of Allied light, medium and heavy guns are covering the Falaise-Argentan-Trun gap.

Aerial reconnaissance reporting large movements of German vehicles northeast and east of the trap indicated that the Allied pocket was being extended to encompass the Nazi withdrawal.

Vichy Leaders Flee To Metz

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—A dispatch to the London Evening Standard from a correspondent with the British Army in France said today that Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state of the Vichy government, had fled to Metz, near the German border, with Chief of Government Pierre Laval, Minister of Security Joseph Darnand and other cabinet members.

The dispatch said the information came from a resistance leader who had just left Paris.

Germans Flee To Switzerland, Ask To Be Interned

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—German troops are crossing into Switzerland asking to be interned as a result of the successful uprising by the French Maquis, Reuters reported today from Geneva.

The reports said that Maquis had captured a whole stretch of the Franco-Swiss border between Vevrier and St. Julien. The German garrison at St. Glinz was said to have crossed into Switzerland carrying all of its arms and equipment.

To protect themselves against the Maquis' gunfire, the Nazis were said to be driving French women and children before them as shields.

German Resistance On
French Riviera Front
Reported As Crumbling

ALLIES AT LEAST
25 MILES INLAND

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Aug. 18.—German resistance on the French Riviera front was officially declared to be crumbling today as Allied armies of liberation smashed their way as much as 25 miles inland and advanced methodically in all sectors.

Allied headquarters in Italy disclosed that at least 7,000 Nazi prisoners have been captured thus far including a general and his entire staff.

Nearing Cannes

Forward elements of Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's U. S. Seventh Army are only six miles from the seashore resort city of Cannes and less than ten miles from the great naval base of Toulon, where less than two years ago a goodly portion of the French fleet was scuttled.

A strong Allied spearhead thrust deep into southern France from the central sector of the steadily expanding beachhead which now covers an area of at least 600 square miles, punching its way to an undisclosed point 25 miles inland from the Mediterranean.

Reinforcements and supplies are still pouring ashore in a steady stream virtually without interference from the enemy. In addition to two small enemy vessels previously reported sunk, it was learned at headquarters that three Nazi E-boats had been destroyed by Allied minesweepers.

German resistance on the island of Port Cros ended following a heavy shelling by an Allied battleship. The island of Levant had been cleared of the enemy earlier.

Casualties Small

The beachhead area in southern France now represents a wartime record for a three-day assault on any section of Axis-held territory. Known casualties in the three American spearhead divisions totaled less than 300 killed, missing or (Continued on Page Two)

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's warning against a permanent four-power alliance and "cynical power politics" increased the fury of the Democratic camp today. The Republican presidential candidate was bluntly accused of playing politics with the postwar peace problem on the eve of the four-power conference in Washington to outline plans for a world security organization.

Sen. O'Mahoney, Wyo., led the Democratic barrage by denouncing Dewey's statement as "a shocking act of political sabotage against the peace of the world."

As inter-agency strife increased over who shall handle postwar disposal of government-held lands, Assistant Attorney General Norman M. Littell today accused War Property Administrator W. L. Clayton of ignoring the recommendations of his agricultural land advisory committee.

Littell protested before the senate national defense committee that Clayton had turned over farm land disposal to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He also opposed RFC's policy of selling through brokers, asserting that brokers are interested in high values and not "social policies."

The house was expected to approve the Colmer bill today which establishes a surplus property administration to dispose of an estimated 60 to 100 billion dollars in excess war goods. Last-minute efforts were being made to authorize donations of surplus materials to schools and soil conservation districts. The new agency would replace the one now headed by W. L. Clayton, which was set up by executive order.

Sen. George G. Ga., chairman of the finance committee, said today congress must undertake a general revision of the social security act next winter.

Claim Germans Are Withdrawn

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The German high command admitted today that Nazi troops in the "salient" west of the Orne river in French Normandy have been "withdrawn" across the river.

The salient referred to was the Argentan-Falaise pocket from which the bulk of German forces have escaped.

United States, Britain And Russia Reach Agreement

Occupation Of Germany

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that a general agreement has been reached between the United States, Great Britain and Russia over military occupation of Germany.

The chief executive also said that a similar agreement should be easily reached between this country and China for occupation of Japan but that it has not yet come to this point. Such an agreement has been mentioned in personal conversations between the president and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, he said.

Makes Disclosure

Mr. Roosevelt made the disclosure at his news conference today. It followed a declaration made to correspondents who accompanied him on his five-week Pacific war tour that allied troops will occupy both Berlin and Tokyo, regardless of the Berlin and Tokyo, regardless of the Axis armies capitulate.

In response to questions at his conference, the president said that the matter of military occupation of Germany had been worked upon by the European advisory committee and that a general understanding had been reached between the three countries.

He emphasized that the understanding was of a general nature and that details had not been gone into.

Trapped Germans Seek To Escape

By DOON CAMPBELL
(Reuters Special Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN NORTHERN FRANCE, 11 A. M. FRIDAY, Aug. 18.—There are indications that the German retreat is developing into something approaching a rout.

The Berlin order to the trapped and confused divisions is: "Get out at all costs."

More than 300 German transport vehicles fleeing eastward were destroyed from the air yesterday, and another 300 damaged.

The British bag of prisoners exceeded 950.

Enemy Ships Off Brest Attacked

SUPREMACY HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Today's communiqué from General Eisenhower's headquarters disclosed that heavy Allied bombers attacked shipping at Brest yesterday afternoon, while medium and light bombers hit 16 bridges spanning the river Risle from Pouldreux to its mouth, to La Perriere-Sur-Risle, 35 miles upstream.

Fighter planes struck at rail lines, locomotives, tunnels, bridges and large number of railway cars from Belgium to France.

Enemy road transport in eastern Normandy was battered by fighters which also strafed tanks, strongpoints, troops and barges on the Seine.

During the night light bombers attacked transportation targets in Normandy and southeast of Paris.

Annihilation Of German Armies In France Is Aim

By J. LYNN LEONARD
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

A vast battle for the annihilation of German armies in northern France on a scale far greater than has been fought in Normandy raged below the lower Seine river today.

While advanced spearheads of American armor already were operating in the vicinity of Paris, the immediate objective of allied armies was the destruction of as much of the German army as possible before the retreating foe can flee back across the Seine.

Mounting Squeeze

The mounting squeeze in northern France was accompanied by heavier onslaughts in the south where allied armies along the Riviera expanded their drives on the Nazi-held naval base of Toulon and the resort city of Cannes.

The plight of the Hun was intensified at the same time by an impending full-scale red army drive deep into territory of the Reich (Continued on Page Two)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHERN FRANCE, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal expressed appreciation of British-American co-operation today after watching the invasion of southern France from the decks of Vice Admiral Henry K. Hewitt's flagship.

Forrestal, commenting on the combined American, British, French, Greek and Polish naval forces taking part in the invasion said a good part of that naval power had been forged in United States recently, at a speed which the enemy never thought possible.

HUSS MESSAGE SAYS
ALLIES NEAR PARIS

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREMACY HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 18.—American troops closed in on Paris from the west and southwest today as front dispatches said American armored units were patrolling in the vicinity of Paris.

There was no confirmation or denial at Allied headquarters of reports that Allied patrols have already entered historic Versailles, five miles southwest of the city limits of the French capital.

News that American tank patrols had reached the vicinity of Paris came from International News Service Staff Correspondent Pierre J. Huss accompanying the U. S. Third Army.

"The Nazi DNE agency placed the Americans at the German 'butcher line' at Rambouillet, 20 miles southwest of Paris."

The German transoceanic agency reported that "the main thrust of Patton's army has lunged out from Chartres along the Route Nationale, which leads to Paris via Versailles. Heavy battles were said to be raging in the 'area near Paris' during the past 24 hours."

Draw Noose Tighter
Meanwhile, the allies drew the noose tighter around the Falaise pocket, narrowing the escape gap to between two able eastward movements of the Germans both within and outside the pocket, but hard fighting was still under way at Argentan and north of Rames, 11 miles southwest of Argentan. Elsewhere in the steadily shrinking pocket enemy resistance is easing.

Red Army Dream Being Fulfilled

German Troops Being Fired Upon On Own Soil Today Is Report

By NATALIA REINE (U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—A three-year-old dream of every Red army soldier is being fulfilled today.

Despite frantic German attempts to halt the Russian offensive, Soviet guns now are firing onto Nazi soil in East Prussia. Red warplanes are bombing and strafing panic-stricken enemy troops on their own soil and, at this very moment, Russian infantrymen may be well into the territory of the Hitlerites.

Moscow observers expect without doubt that the invasion will follow the Eidenburg-Koenigsberg line. Any continuation of the drive west of Gdansk would have involved a movement through the thick Augustov forests, which served as a formidable obstacle to maneuver in the first world war. The area west of Osovo is important for the protection of the flank and for beating off any possible Nazi counter-attacks, but is filled with lakes and marshes.

Thus the Red army now is following the most advantageous invasion routes. The German high command knows this and has sped to the area an entire tank division. The division, the "great Germany" outfit, has orders to stop the offensive and remain in the lost border. Many corpses and heaps of tangled metal are the only evidences of the counter-attacks made by this group.

The Germans obviously have not held out much hope for the salvation of East Prussia, since all who could have been fleeing for weeks. Nazi propaganda, however, has claimed that the position is not hopeless and at the same time recalls publicly that Frederick the Great gave up East Prussia to the Russians to defend "truly German land."

Russian observers consider that phrase an interesting admission that in the eyes of the Nazis themselves East Prussia is not really German soil.

Another fact which the Nazis gloss over is that when Frederick the Great abandoned East Prussia, he was forced to give up Berlin soon after.

BREACH BETWEEN HITLER SS FORCES AND ARMY SEEN

laid," a headquarters spokesman announced after revealing the split between the regular military and the Nazi armed forces which last month was declared responsible for the attempt on Hitler's life on July 20.

"There is considerable German movement by day through the Argentinian gap," he said.

"We're not even giving those Jap admirals time to commit hara-kiri."

France, rather than as a move to flank German troops in Italy, one of the two, or both, river valley routes of approach just mentioned must be used.

There is only one thing that can be certain to observers who are on the outside—the Nazi legions in France are now defeated. If the Germans use good strategy they will immediately withdraw from all of France. However, to date in this war Hitler has not used good strategy. Therefore, it may be expected that he will establish a new defense line or lines on the World War One and the 1940 World War Two battlefields.

Natural Defense Systems

There are two natural defense systems running from east to west. First, the furthest to the south, is the line of the Seine river through Paris, and from Paris east the line of the Marne river. Second, and further to the north, is the line of the Somme river commencing at Abbeville and running eastward approximately to Soisson, and from that city eastward on the line of the Aisne-Meuse rivers.

Still back of those two defense lines are the little Maginot line between France and Belgium on the north, and the Maginot line between France and Germany on the east which runs into and joins with the Alps mountains.

As long as the German legions fight, even though they are defeated, terrific combat can still happen in France. One thing is certain. In 1917 and 1918, men of the American armed forces in France could take their three-day battle leaves from the front in Paris. That condition is about to be repeated.

Defense Training Urged By President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today asked the nation to devote study to the problem of training the country's youth for defense after the war is won and general demobilization begins.

The president did not call for universal military training but said that he believed some form of training should take place after the war in which boys between the ages of 17 and 23 could devote one year of their lives to their country.

Roosevelt Denies Willkie Invited To White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today denied printed reports that Wendell Willkie had been invited to the White House to discuss international affairs.

The president appeared somewhat nettled by the question that was put to him at his news conference and he retorted bluntly that he did not know anything about it.

He said that it sounds like a New York story. When he was pressed again with the question as to whether he would like to see Willkie, he replied that it was a personal matter entirely and that he did not feel that he should discuss the matter in his conferences even on an off-the-record basis.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt denied any knowledge of a story carried in a New York newspaper this morning which spoke of a purported plan by the president to ask congress for powers to set up a world security organization separated from powers to enforce peace treaties.

The president appeared particularly put out by the story and the question itself.

REPORT ALLIED PATROLS REACH PARIS VICINITY

Americans had reached the outskirts of Paris and that the Germans were preparing to evacuate. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique confirmed the liberation of Breux, Chartres, Chateaudun and Orleans and revealed that a bridgehead had been established across the Eure river east of Dreux and due west of the French capital.

There was no confirmation of indirect reports that the Americans had actually reached the outskirts of Paris, but the speed of the advance by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.'s tanks and infantry promised such news will be forthcoming soon.

Allied headquarters, although it has broken the veil of secrecy which earlier shrouded the progress of Patton's army, remains conservative in its reports, which in the past 24 hours have been considerably behind front dispatches.

St. Malo Taken

Capture of the citadel of St. Malo at the base of the Breton peninsula was announced by headquarters nearly 24 hours after the Germans had admitted its fall.

The communique said that numerous pockets of enemy troops isolated by the drive through the peninsula were being mopped up.

(The Germans conceded the loss of all of French Normandy when Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, the Voelkische Beobachter, admitted that it was impossible for German forces to hold their present lines in France by rushing up reinforcements.)

"Sweeping decisions are being taken by the German command in the west, decisions which were determined by German strategy for all battlefronts," Hitler's paper said.)

Numerous towns and villages were swept up by the allies both in tightening the Falaise-Argentan gap, which is steadily being liquidated, and in the drive on Paris.

St. Calais, approximately 100 miles southwest of Paris and 32 miles north of Tours, has been taken by one American column driving for Tours. Another, 77 miles southwest of Paris and 55 miles northwest of Tours, has also been occupied.

Heavy Opposition

Heavy opposition was encountered north of Rance, 11 miles southwest of Argentan.

A 3,000-yard advance was scored north of Laferriere.

American patrols contacted British forces along a line north and northeast of Domfront, tightening the noose around the Falaise pocket.

A headquarters spokesman said that the battle in the pocket is reaching its final stage and that the escape gap is now only two to three miles wide.

Desultory fighting continues in the Orleans area, some 65 miles below Paris, but not much enemy resistance has yet been encountered in this region. Enemy troops taken include members of a so-called "stomach battalion," consisting of men suffering from stomach disorders.

Air reconnaissance showed that only one serviceable bridge remains over the Seine after the past two weeks of allied aerial bombardment. A span northwest of Paris at Conflans St. Honoré. The Germans are using a considerable quantity of barges to get across the river in their retreat toward Paris.

Vendome Taken

The town of Vendome, 91 miles southwest of Paris and 44 miles southeast of Le Mans, was among those taken by the American units pushing against Tours.

At the northeastern end of the steadily advancing allied battle line in French Normandy, British and Canadian forces have taken Troarn and Beuvette and reached a line running along the Dives river to Bures.

(Swiss newspaper reports were quoted by the Office of War Information as saying that German troops in Paris were digging trenches around buildings occupied by Nazi civil or military officers and that 30,000 Nazis were busily fortifying the suburbs of the city. These reports indicated that Nazi Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge may be preparing to defend the French capital instead of declaring it an open city.)

Allied headquarters placed the Americans within 27 miles of Versailles, where the peace treaty was signed at the end of the last war, located five miles from the city limits of Paris.

The Germans themselves admitted that a state of chaos existed inside the French capital, where the thunder of American guns could be heard, and added that the Americans are "closing in on the city."

With the battle for France nearing a climax, it was officially disclosed that the U. S. first and third armies alone have already taken a toll of more than 200,000 Germans in killed, wounded and prisoners. In the 48 hours ending midnight Aug. 15, 9,754 prisoners were added to the American bag.

ALLIED INVADERS DRIVE AHEAD IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

taken prisoner up until noon yesterday, the headquarters communique revealed.

Among the Nazi divisions taking part in the battle of southern France, it was disclosed, are the 242nd and the 148th.

The Mediterranean Allied air force, fanning out over southern France, northern Italy and the Balkans, flew 1,500 sorties yesterday, with night bombers again blasting the Ploesti oilfields in Rumania.

The fact that the Mediterranean-based planes have resumed their normal schedule of smashing at targets in northern Italy and the Balkans as well as southern France indicated that the Riviera push was no longer in need of the overwhelming air support used at first.

Planes Lost

Twenty four Allied aircraft failed to return from yesterday's operations. Two enemy planes were destroyed.

A naval announcement revealed that carrier-based aircraft had rendered valuable aid to the invasion forces, bombarding enemy ships, bombing and strafing enemy positions on land and providing air cover for advancing Allied ground forces.

In the naval shelling that preceded the landings and subsequent gunfire in support of ground operations, the Allied navy was disclosed to have fired a total of 15,900 shells, of which 12,500 were of 12-inch calibre.

offensive driving west of Pskov continued to batter German elements of the trapped Baltic garrison.

At Warsaw, German attacks on Russian positions in the suburban town of Praga were handily contained by Soviet defenses as Nazi efforts to break the noose around the Polish capital ended in defeat.

With Russian forces poised on the very frontier of German East Prussia that historic Nazi province is threatened now by three Soviet armies converging on German territory along a 200 mile front from the advanced Suwalki triangle to the Sesepe river in Lithuania.

Leading the Russians in their drive against the Reich itself is 37-year-old Gen. Ivan Chernyakhovsky, tank expert, youngest full general in the Red Army.

Supporting him are thousands of massed guns, from heavy artillery battered down to mortars. Against him the Germans are hurling incessant counter-attacks, mounted in part with reserves summoned hurriedly from the interior reaches of East Prussia.

The Nazis were reported in battlefield dispatches to be using a new tank, the King Tiger, in some of their actions, particularly in the Warsaw area, but so far there have been no reports of this weapon on Chernyakhovsky's front.

The Russians drove forward along the Sesepe river in western Lithuania, reconquering many miles of ground taken by the Nazis in their 1941 invasion.

Chinese Resistance

One thing which seems to surprise the western world is the dogged and long-term successful resistance of the Chinese people to the Japs. The Celestial Empire seems something like a pillow. The Japs strike at one point and make a dent in it, but sooner or later it smooths itself out again.

Time after time we have heard that the situation in China is serious and almost fatal and that the government will collapse unless sizeable aid comes soon. And yet up to this time China has refused to collapse. With Hitler reeling and help for the Orient near at hand there seems little possibility that the Chinese will lose their courage now.

These Oriental fighters have been battling the Japs for years. Furthermore their country is in the throes of an inflation which seems almost grotesque from this distance. Yet they continue to resist. One reason doubtless is their hatred for the Japs. Then their morale does not crack easily because they are used to war and famine. They have been having both for centuries. Time after time the country has been torn by rival warlords who seem to take it out on the inoffensive, non-military populace.

But now the skies look brighter even for China and soon sizeable help will be on hand to drive the Jap into his island den.

Even then, however, the troubles of the Chinese will not be over. Their country is disunited and there are many problems to solve. First there are the Chinese Communists who have never been friendly to General Chang's government and have the powerful support of Soviet Russia.

Again we have the economic problem with its extreme inflation which is a real peril and will require aid from the Allies, which means principally aid from the United States. Finally how about the territorial holdings the European powers had in China before they gave them up to the Japs? Will China get these or will the Occidental powers retain their "spheres of influence" in China?

Following Tiniest Clews

A report from the British Royal Air Force has disclosed how even the smallest clews have led to the knocking out of German military targets.

One of the most interesting of these was the case of the footprints of German girl munitions workers. Apparently, the sun was too bright for them on the main road and they had taken a short cut across a meadow. An aerial reconnaissance picture showed up the tracks faintly, but clearly enough to call for further investigation. It led to an underground munitions plant and its eventual destruction.

Another was the case of the strangely behaving freight trains which puffed into a tunnel somewhere in France but never came out at the other end. An intelligence officer studied this curious case just long enough to discover that there was no other end, that it was a vast munitions dump. Result: A big bombing expedition.

World Peas

This title indicates no attempt to imitate Artemus Ward. It refers to the publicity being given to a posthumous horticultural contribution of some sycophant of King Tut, who placed dry peas in the royal tomb 3,300 years ago.

It seems an English archeologist who had worked on the excavation sent three of the peas in 1936 to his American friend, Maj. Walter G. Dyer, who planted them in his garden in Providence, R. I. Major Dyer took some of the new peas to the AAF tactical center at Orlando, Fla. The school commandant planted 60 outside his office. He surprised Floridians by planting them in April as the pea bearing season is during December and early January. By July the plants were full grown, seven feet high. The peas, which grow four to six to a pod, are a little longer, flatter and darker than the average variety, and when cooked have a distinctive walnut flavor.

But this is what is interesting: The Tut vines are scrupulously avoided by worms, green lice and beetles which attack nearby vegetation, and the only explanation offered is the remark of a sergeant who suggested that even the pests fear the "King Tut curse." Did the pests which attacked pea vines 33 centuries ago die off when the Egyptian pea plant became extinct, thinking the work of their species completed?

If so, it shows that pests can be mistaken, too, because Florida horticulturists are reported to be interested in growing this pestless variety.

Taxation Mickey Finn

Honeyed words are being used by spokesmen from the Internal Revenue Bureau in an effort to woo federal income taxpayers into a more cheerful frame of mind. Having paid much more than ever before last year, and faced with the possibility that they will be forced to shell out still more during the present fiscal year, they are being advised that the operation will be less painful.

A person whose income is less than $5,000 a year will, with a few exceptions, be permitted to make his return on the withholding receipt provided by his employer. He will fill in a few spaces, involving no figuring whatever, after which he will wait for the government to present a bill—or a refund if he has paid too much.

Individuals with higher incomes will use another blank, but there is a pledge that this will be less confusing than in former years and that the tax due may be computed by reference to accompanying tables. A flat deduction of 10 per cent is to be allowed for contributions, interest, taxes, medical expenses and similar deductible items. Each person will be entitled to an exemption of $500, replacing the former exemption schedule of $500 for a single person, $1,200 for a married couple and $350 for a child.

The regulation that a dependent must be less than 18 years old has been dropped, but a new rule provides that a dependent must be a citizen of this country or live in the United States, Canada or Mexico. The figuring may be less painful, but the paying is beyond alleviation by any Congressional anesthesia.

Air Power Advocates Cite War Results

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The advocates of air power believe France has proved their case once and for all. Both in the north and in the south, air supremacy is writing a new chapter in the history of warfare.

Trapped German armies are bombed and strafed at will as they jam the escape route from Normandy. Almost unchallenged from the air, the Allied forces move inland from the southern coast. Only three months ago, even the most air-minded military men—even General "Hap" Arnold himself—didn't dare hope that the advance job had been so thorough. With their fingers crossed, they talked cautiously of heavy losses from enemy bombing of a target spread from one side of the channel to the other. Intelligence reports indicated a considerable enemy reserve air force, presumably held back for D-day.

The low-dissecting voice came from the command of the Eighth Air Force. Their reconnaissance photographs showed how thorough was the job they had done, and their confidence was unshaken.

Nazi Air Force Lacking

As a million and a half men and the ships to take them across the channel assembled in British ports and no German bombers came over, top military command concluded the Nazis were holding everything back for the day itself. And when it didn't come at the beginning of D-day, they said that the Germans were showing supreme self-restraint by holding back their strategic air reserves for the critical hours after the Allies had landed on the beaches.

It never came, except sporadically at night. The Eighth Air Force had said it would never come. They achieved air supremacy by shutting it out over France and Germany from that first pioneer beginning, almost exactly two years ago. No one can ever do honor enough to the men who went out night after night when the odds were heavily with the enemy.

Between the Army Air Forces and the Navy is a certain jealousy over the credit for destruction of German coastal defenses. Navy men say it could never have been done from the air, that the telling blows came from the all-out barrage from warships in the channel. Airmen smile at this. They're willing to give the Navy credit. But what about the job the Eighth Air Force did immediately after D-day? That could never have been done by a navy.

One example of what they mean is the precision bombing of bridges over the Loire river. All nine were bombed out by a small section of the Eighth Air Force on June 8, thereby blocking the German effort to bring up reserve forces.

Impressive Work
Top British and American military men say this is the most impressive piece of precision bombing in the history of aerial warfare. Here is the proof that precision bombing is precise.

Those reconnaissance photographs are something! From 22,000 feet, the target is tiny—a narrow masonry bridge. Yet each bridge was broken, some more completely than others, but broken beyond possibility of quick repair.

In a series of sorties on June 20, the Eighth Air Force destroyed a number of vital targets in Germany—synthetic oil plants, air fields and bases. The before and after photographs are remarkable. They show a concentration of industry demolished, while the surrounding area is untouched.

The German Air Force today, as an American airman of World War I and World War II explained to me, is in almost the same situation as the German air force in 1918. Then, as now, the losses were so heavy that all the enemy could do was to assemble in special formations the best remaining planes and the best pilots. Today these surviving formations are reserved for the defense of absolutely vital war centers.

The surest measure of our supremacy is the fact that our losses today, even deep over Germany, average only 1 to 1½ per cent—which compares with losses of 5 to 6 per cent in the old days. The umbrella of air strength we have stretched over two sides of France didn't grow out of nothing. Back of it is the long, costly pioneering—the hard lessons of battle learned by British and Americans alike.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:57. Sun rises tomorrow 6:10.

There are too many people in this country who wait for an order to do things.

Some people don't travel so much to get anywhere, but they must be constantly on the move.

At this time of the year people like to get a present of a head of cabbage, a few tomatoes and a dozen ears of corn—or two dozen ears. We don't need any.

Often after some people get married three or four times they think other people are foolish to get married.

A MARRIED MAN? PROBABLY.
A man in a hurry rushed into the bank. Two lines were formed before the two open windows of the receiving tellers. One line contained three women—the other, 18 men.

Mr. Man-in-a-hurry passed, gave a full minute to the survey of both lines, then joined the line of men!

If some birds do not have anything else to make a noise with, they do it with their mouths—worsey kind.

The landlord often raises the rent when the tenant can't raise it.

You can't believe everything you hear, but you can repeat it.

A man could often pay a small debt with the price of the shoe leather he wears out dodging it.

Have you noticed the latest things in men's trousers? Yes, women.

A covetous man is good to none, but worst to himself.

The woman who marries a man to reform him has not time to take proper care of her complexion.

Nobody can help noticing the shortcomings of the man who is always behind time.

The physician's new maid was summoned to the door by the ringing of the bell and the caller asked if the doctor was in, and finding he was not, further asked when he was expected back.

"Well," replied the maid, "I don't know how long the doctor will be—he's been called out on an eternity case."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WORKING MOTHER'S PROBLEMS

As a rule, the mother not forced by necessity to work should not try to hold a job outside the home while her children are little. Her care, guidance and companionship are needed by these children. Of course, if she has a capable substitute during her absence and can give her evenings and week ends to the children, the plan might be workable, though hardly ideal. My bulletin, "Suggestions To Working Mothers," may be had for postage (a three-cent stamp on a self-addressed envelope).

Some older children who have been well trained in their earlier years and have learned good habits of responsibility, may acquire good independence and self-reliance just because the mother works. Yet she is an unusual mother who can give her best to her children while holding a full-time job. Of course there are such; and I am impressed with the fine job of parenthood many working mothers are doing.

We should remember that many mothers who work spend far more time with their children than many other mothers who don't even go much of their own household. If a child were to choose his mother, he might better pick one who works than one absent quite as much just for personal amusement. Also some mothers who work guide their children better than some other mothers who are home practically all the time.

One big problem of the working mother is to conserve her physical energy. If she must assume all the household cares in addition to her job, she hardly can maintain the serenity she should, nor find sufficient time to be companionable with her children. Some working mothers write me of their worries over this. The very strain from many duties may keep her emotionally tense. Fortunately if she has a husband who shares in these home jobs, and fortunate her children who as they grow old enough, also learn to help her. Some working mothers of children over eight or ten give these children unusual training in character by leading them to take on responsibilities. "How To Teach The Child To Help At Home," may be had for postage in a self-addressed stamped envelope sent to 235 East 45th Street, New York City.

For the working mother of the young child, there is the problem of providing a capable substitute in her absence, for the child's safety and proper training. One big objective is to train this substitute to do exactly as the mother would do with the child.

I often think of the mother working from necessity, who will worry because she cannot feel sure her little child is properly cared for during her absence. I wish more might be done for her peace of mind. Here is a strong argument for the nursery school at public expense for the mothers of very young children, who must work.

The World and the Mud Puddles

TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT

A careful compilation of the number of Federal, State, County and all local employees on the public payroll as of April 1, 1944, shows that there were 6,433,000 individuals employed. On the basis of a 135,000,000 population, there was one public employee for every twenty-one persons in the country.

The analysis shows that while state employees have declined in number substantially since 1940, with a smaller drop in city, village, county and local district employees, Federal payrolls have undergone a tremendous expansion. Uncle Sam's army of payrollers has risen from 947,000 in 1940 to 3,266,000 in 1944. The dollar total of the Federal payroll is more than the aggregate of that of all states, cities, villages, counties and local districts. Out of the $1,041,000,000 of taxpayers' funds paid to public employees approximately six hundred thirty-three millions goes to Federal employees.

It is obvious that with state and local employees decreasing in number, while Federal employees are increasing by leaps and bounds, we are proceeding farther and farther toward centralized government. When it is noted that the national government in many states has more employees than the state governments, the trend becomes increasingly apparent.

The founders of our government knew that one of the gravest threats against democracy was too much government, that every extension of governmental power placed limitations on the liberties of the people. With one Federal employee to every forty and a fraction people—men, women and children included—we certainly are suffering from a serious case of over-government.

And what about that age-old aphorism, "That nation is governed best which is governed least."

Congress Expected To Act On Reconversion Early Settlement Of Problem Is Looked For Lawmakers Beaten In Primary Are Very Angry

By HELEN ESSARY

(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Congress will buckle down and settle that reconversion problem quickly is the opinion of the behind the scenes people at the capitol. There will be a certain amount of fire-works and maneuvers, but not as much delay as you might expect from the goings on at the opening of the debate of the Kilgore-Murray bill and the George amendment thereto.

The reason for this is that too many members of Congress of the Senate especially, are mad about something. When you are mad, or defeated as the present Congress has been here and there, you do not want to dally around. You want to whack out your job. Get it over with and go on home and play in your own back yard.

The Senate as I looked down on its debate on how to peacefully convert workers, fighters and industrialists to a peace-time world when the war is ended, gave as complete a picture of legislators with a mad on as you will ever see in this memorial town.

The mad was not visible to the naked eye, even from the galleries. It was concealed behind a polite public manner. But you knew it was there. If you remembered only a little of what has been happening in politics and government in the past month or so.

Wallace Is One

High in the teachers' seat, watching the class carry on was Henry Wallace who wanted to be vice president again and was told at the last minute that he wouldn't go in the group below was Senator Hattie Caraway defeated for re-nomination in Arkansas. Mrs. Caraway must have been mad inside. But she had camouflaged disappointment with a cascade of trills, double-ruffling down the front of her V-neck black dress and at its short sleeves. This is the first time since Mrs. Caraway has been in the Senate that I have seen her solemn black relieved by a touch of white. Maybe Mrs. Caraway is celebrating her release from the legislative struggle.

Senator Harry Byrd around whom Virginia wrapped her hopes of a presidential candidacy was on the Democratic side though nobody has called him a New Dealer for years. Claude Pepper of Florida who had faint hopes of beating Truman for the vice presidential candidacy was talking out loud in support of the administration. Alben Barkley who would not have minded at all being the vice presidential nominee speaking up now and then. Senator Robert Taft on whom the Dewey toga might have fallen was busy watching the Republican plans.

I didn't see my old friends Senators Bennett Clark and D. Worth Clark, recently defeated for re-nomination for the Senate. Bennett and Worth will be greatly missed.

Senator Burton Reports

Speaking of the faces on the Senate floor and not particularly of its blasted presidential and vice presidential hopes, there sat Senator Harold Burton of Ohio, talking away with pencil and paper. Just as he generally does while the Senate is in session. Senator Burton sends out a report to 6,000 of his constituents every six months. He explains that he spends one-fourth of his time on the floor, one-fourth in his office, seeing constituents, one-fourth visiting the departments and one-fourth answering mail.

Turning to the ladies—seems to me that those rival glamor girls Congresswoman Clare Luce (R.) of Connecticut and Congresswoman Candidate Helen Gahagan (D.) of California are clever in their present silence about each other. And still more on the ladies—Barbara Joseph, secretary of Maryland, and George Radcliffe of Maryland, has a plan—when she comes to Congress (Miss Joseph is going to run some day to ask for a Woman's West Point and a Woman's Annapolis. Miss Joseph believes and very soundly, too, I think that women are in the services to stay.

The WACS, the WAVES, the SPARS and Lady Marines are showing such efficiency it is unlikely that the Army and the Navy will want to get on without them. So, argues Miss Joseph, establish proper training centers for the future women officers in all branches of the service. Just as you have for the men. Give the women the advantages the men have. Place the schools on the west coast or in the middle west. Those areas have always wanted military schools.

What People Say

(By International News Service)
ALBANY—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee: "If we get off on the wrong foot of sinister power politics, we will have lost the war before we have won it."

WASHINGTON—Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces urges pre-military age youths to return to high school this fall: "Your education has top priority. You will serve your country best by making the most of your educational opportunities, for this is not only a brave man's war—it is a smart man's war."

CHICAGO—Henri de Chatillon, Parisian fashion designer: "American women always over-dress themselves. Too much make-up, too much jewelry, too much furs and those huge flowers they wear! Some of them look like a well-kept grave, nest-ee pass?"

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

My hat is off to the Long Island judge who has just handed down a decision that a school principal has the right to spank a recalcitrant pupil.

A father had his ten-year-old boy's principal arrested for applying the rod to his offspring's posterior, after said offspring had been warned several times for misbehaving.

The judge held that a principal has the same legal status as a parent who takes a misbehaving youngster to the woodshed, providing that the punishment is not unreasonable in manner or immediate in degree.

Somehow this decision took me back to my own youth.

My most beloved teacher was a very stern and very old man—he must have been old of forty, and you know how old that is to a youngster of twelve!

Whenever we did something wrong he made us come up to his desk with our own ruler.

"Hold out your hand," he would say, "palm up."

And then, according to the severity of our misdemeanor, he would spank us soundly with our own ruler—sometimes five, sometimes ten, sometimes twenty times.

For extraordinary occasions he used his long bamboo stick—not on the hand, however.

"Lean over," he would say, and lean over we did.

Liked Strictest Best

Of all my teachers, although he was the strictest, I liked him best, and when I read of his death the other day, I felt that one of the fondest memories of my early life had died.

We had respect for our teachers in those days, and we had respect for our parents.

I can't imagine a teacher or a father being arrested for spanking his pupil or his son.

And as I look around me I see that those spanking fathers and teachers reared a pretty strong and useful generation.

I guess, maybe you and I who still believe in old-time religion and old-time discipline and authority are just a bunch of old fogies.

Maybe when our folks spanked us, we should have run to the nearest police station.

But, as I write this, I am looking at my father's picture which is hanging on the wall.

He's gone a long time now—and somehow I don't think I could have ever turned him over to the cops.

And he spanked me plenty.

OLD FOLKS' DAY

Senator Pepper wants the second Sunday of October to be named "Old Folks' Day" in honor of grandpa and grandma.—News Item.

Mother said I, "for forty years," we've shared the family's smiles and tears.

Made feast days as we've come along. For every member of the throng: Christmas, and Easter, birthdays, too.

One Sunday set aside for you, And now the senators discuss A celebration just for us.

"For forty years we've bought and tied The gift for many a blushing bride; Kept holidays along the way—July the Fourth, Memorial Day, Thanksgiving Day and Halloween, With many a grand old day between."

And now, Oh joy, Ne Ultra Plus! They want to have a day for us.

"An 'Old Folks' Day" is now proposed. When autumn's fiscal books are closed. And loving tributes may be paid To wrinkled cheeks and temples grayed.

A pipe for grandpa and a shawl For grandma's shoulders in the fall. And these we love to make a fuss. And tell how much they think of us!

"I think I'll toss my cane away And dance a jig come 'Old Folks' Day!" I'll turn a cartwheel just to show I'm still as young as long ago. You rouse your cheeks and paint your lips. And reddens well your finger tips. We'll show those kids on 'Old Folks' Day. At heart we're still as young as they!"

CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF FLIGHT OF NAZI PANZERS

By LEE CARSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
WITH AN AMERICAN ARMORED TASK FORCE AT RANES, France, Aug. 16.—(Delayed)—The precise pattern of the great Allied armored attack fanning out from Ranes today was blurred by the stumbling retreat of Hitler's once proud panzer forces.

Dazed and battered remnants of the Wehrmacht are in full and chaotic retreat through the woods, fields and valleys, fleeing in peasant carts stolen from the French, on foot, in commandeered taxis and on bicycles and even hay wagons.

Ludicrous highlights were daubed into the scene by the frightened and confused Nazis. In a large picture of Allied advance and victory, Wehrmacht defeat and death, four Germans hitchhiked their way to an Allied prison pen.

Hitch-Hike To War Prison Camp.
A captured Mark V tank, manned by American troops, came roaring down country road. Four Germans sprang from the underbrush along the route and thumbed a ride. The tank slowed down, the Nazis leaped aboard, and when the tank stopped, grinning Yank MPs took the stunned supermen to pocky.

Another comic highlight was provided early in the day by American commanders. When it became apparent that the roads crowded with fleeing Germans were slowing down the neat and well integrated armored drive, the Yank officers stared at their watches and fumed about schedules for all the world like a group of late commuters waiting for the 5-17.

But the total of prisoners taken from the Nazi retreat, more than 800 during the day, showed representative of 12 enemy divisions. Military observers concluded the Germans either had been bluffing the Americans and not revealing the fact that they had a tremendous number of divisions at the front, or more likely, had been making up composite divisions from whatever troops they had to hand.

This Is One For Courts To Decide

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Orphan's court today was asked to decide whether three loose pieces of paper are sufficient to constitute a legal will.

The papers were discovered after Mrs. Elizabeth L. Baldwin died on June 12, leaving an estate of $100,000, with no apparent will. The writing was accepted as Mrs. Baldwin's, but no witnesses had signed the document, which relatives held to be invalid because the pages were not fastened together.

Almost half of the estate was left to various institutions, including a $30,000 bequest to Washington & Jefferson college.

Lester K. Stoner Of R. D. 6 Is Badly Injured In Fall From Roof Of Boyles Avenue Home

Lester K. Stoner, aged 47 years, of R. D. 6, is in a serious condition in the Jameson Memorial hospital as the result of injuries sustained in a fall from the roof of the J. H. Templeton home at 141 Boyles avenue shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Stoner, a carpenter employed by the W. F. Zehner company, was helping to repair the roof of the Templeton home when in some manner he slipped and fell onto the porch roof below and then onto the sidewalk. Edward A. Long of 138 Boyles avenue went to Mr. Stoner's assistance, while an ambulance was summoned which took him to the hospital.

Examination at the hospital revealed a fracture of the left arm, broken finger on the left hand, possible fracture of the skull, possible fracture of vertebra of the neck, and laceration of the forehead.

Ordered two years ago and held up by the war, 7,500 feet of special hose piping from the United States has arrived in Chile and is being allocated to fire departments in various cities.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., DRIVER KILLED

James Stizza Killed Almost Instantly In Truck Crash Near Beaver Falls

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 18.—(INS)—A Youngstown, O., truck driver was dead and a pair of Latrobe brothers were in Providence hospital at Beaver Falls today as the result of a highway accident on route 51 last night involving two trucks and an automobile.

State police said a truck loaded with steel plates and driven by James Stizza, of (Bouquet street) Youngstown, got out of control on a hill near Darlington, crashed head on into another truck, in which Enello Carota, and his brother Julius, both of Latrobe, were riding and then sideswiped an automobile.

Stizza, police said, was killed almost immediately. The trucks caught fire and the brothers were burned before they could extricate themselves from the wreckage.

At Providence hospital this morning, attaches said that Julius would probably be released sometime during the day, but that Enello, who suffered burns about the hands and face, was only in "fair" condition. The brothers were handling a truck for the Latrobe Brewery company.

No one was reported injured in the automobile.

Man Deserted His Family But Left Security At Death

His Social Security Account Meant $67.14 A Month To Widow And Children

How a man took better care of his family after his death than he had during his lifetime came out in a story whose final scenes were enacted in one of the field offices of the Social Security Board. The story is related below by Edward J. Sinder, manager of the local Social Security office.

A woman, poorly but neatly dressed, accompanied by three small children, asked to see the manager of the office in the town near where she lived. Out of her pocketbook, she drew a soiled social security card.

"My husband, Jim, sent me this from his sick-bed last week," she said. "He told me to bring it here when I got news of his death. We received the telegram from the hospital yesterday."

She was dry-eyed and quiet as she spoke, showing no signs of grief. Asked for details, she told her story. Her husband, a carpenter, had deserted her and their three children five years before, when the youngest was barely a year old. Left penniless, she and the children had been taken in by her parents who lived on a farm.

"Sometimes he sent a few dollars," she said, "but never more than five or ten at a time. I went to court once and the judge said Jim must send me $75 every month. But I couldn't collect it. I didn't know where Jim was most of the time. It wasn't that he didn't earn good money but it always slipped through his fingers. He was a free spender; he should never have married. Now that he's dead," she added, "he sends me this. What good is it?"

Account Benefits Family

Investigation of the man's social security account showed that his widow and their three young children were entitled to receive a total of $67.14 a month in survivors benefits. When this was explained to her on her second visit to the Social Security office the woman broke down.

"Now, at last, I needn't be ashamed to talk to the children about their father," she declared. "I can tell them he's taken care of them until they're old enough to work."

Incidents like these are frequent in the course of a day's work in a Social Security field office. Widows, young children, dependent, aged parents learn what a bread-winner's social account means to them.

The field office which serves the New Castle area is located at 306 Neshannock avenue, New Castle. Mr. Sinder, the manager, points out that information and service at this office are free to the public. Though this story relates to a family in need, he Sinder explained that there is no examination into any person's resources in connection with payments to widows and children under this Federal Insurance Program.

French Woman Commando With Invasion Forces

Pistol-Packing Mamma Among First Of French Forces To Land

By WALTER LUCAS

Representing the Combined British Press (Distributed by International News Service)

WITH FRENCH COMMANDOS, Southern France, Aug. 15. (Delayed.)—(INS)—One of the first soldiers to hit the beaches in the southern France landings was a woman—a famous "pistol packing mamma" of the French commandos.

With a full pack on her back and the ribbon of the Croix De Guerre on her breast, a long ugly looking knife hanging at her side and a revolver in her hand, she charged off a landing craft at the beach a little before midnight on Monday. I cannot give her name as she is a wife and mother who has relatives still in occupied France.

She is one of the oldest members of the French commando battalion as she was one of the first to volunteer when the unit was formed about 18 months ago. She fought in Tunisia and at landings at Elba, was decorated for bravery and twice mentioned in dispatches.

It was strange and fascinating to find a woman amongst the crowd of very tough commandos. She was neither husky nor masculine, except for her bobbed hair and uniform she bore no resemblance to a male. She was tall and lanky with clear cut features and a pleasant, soft voice. She is a first lieutenant and her fellow officers make no difference between her and them. She drinks with them—I saw her put down several whiskies without turning a hair—she joins in their poker games and smokes without ceasing.

Her main job with the commandos is the welfare of the men who regard her as a sort of universal mother. But at the same time she goes into action with them and, so I was told, is generally in front of the fighting.

Biscuit Company Workers Strike

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Production of army "K" rations in the National Biscuit company's Chicago plant was at a standstill today following a walkout of 900 union employees.

No statement was forthcoming from the management or union spokesmen, but a dispute over collective bargaining rights is pending before the NLRB.

The strikers are members of the Bakery and Confectionary Workers union, Local 100 AFL.

London Paper Says Paris Broadcast Assails Hitler

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The London Daily Sketch reported today that the Paris radio had been seized late last night by German S. S. officers who broadcast an appeal to their fellow officers and men to turn against Adolf Hitler. The Paris station had been silent all evening when suddenly a German officer came on and said: "We men of the Waffen S. S. have nothing in common with the gangster S. S. guarding concentration camps with the Gestapo. Comrades of the Waffen S. S. and the army graves of our common dead now oblige us to fight an internal enemy as we fought the enemy without.

"Officers of the Waffen and the Wehrmacht, rise to fight shoulder to shoulder against Hitler!"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The house was expected to approve today the Colmer bill establishing a surplus property administration to handle the disposal of an estimated 60 to 100 billion dollars in excess wartime materials.

Rep. Manasco (D. Ala.), in charge of the far-reaching measure, expressed confidence that it would be passed and forwarded to the senate for concurrence with few amendments.

Members, however, continued their efforts to write into the bill various new provisions and Manasco predicted a fight over proposals to donate surplus materials to schools and other educational institutions and to soil conservation districts.

Would Limit Sales
Strong sentiment was noted also for a ban on the sale of all government-owned plants, which cost more than one million dollars, without the prior approval of congress. The bill as originally drawn barred only the sale of synthetic rubber and aluminum plants valued at five million dollars or more.

Meanwhile, the house ways and means committee met for the fourth successive day to consider legislation creating an office of war mobilization and reconversion. Two bills were before the committee. The senate-passed George measure and a similar act drawn up by the house postwar policy committee.

Supporters of the Kilgore-Murray bill, which was defeated last week in the senate, met again today to formulate liberalizing amendments on postwar unemployment compensation which will be offered on the floor.

Rep. Celler (D. N. Y.), revealed the bi-partisan group had agreed with representatives of the AFL, CIO and Railroad Brotherhoods to support a proposal for a national standard of jobs benefits of $35 a week maximum for veterans and $24 for civilians.

Production Training Now In Fifth Year

Few Districts This Size Have Been In Operation Four Years, Vocational Director Says

War production training in the New Castle schools is now in its fifth year, Vocational Director Earle Cass said this morning.

Few other districts of this size in Pennsylvania have been in continuous operation for four years, according to Mr. Cass. During this four-year period, completed in July, over 2,000 men and women have been trained for work in local industries. Several types of courses have been offered, with the largest enrollment usually being in the machine shop and blue print classes.

At the present time, the machine shop is being operated 40 hours a week and a refrigeration service course is being planned by the United States Employment Service.

To Change Schedule
Changes in the machine shop schedule will be effective September 5, the day after Labor Day, Mr. Cass stated. The present class will begin meeting from 6 o'clock in the evening till 11 o'clock, five days a week. Persons over sixteen years of age interested in enrolling should call Mr. Cass at the school administration building, or Mrs. Wida Patterson at the employment office.

On September 6, a new section will be started for students of Lawrence county schools. Classes will be held from 1 o'clock until 6 every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday. Those interested should call Mr. Cass, or John Syling, superintendent of the county schools.

Women are especially urged to enroll in the 6 to 11 machine shop course, so that they will be fitted to take over urgent jobs in local industries. Other types of classes may be taken up later.

Greatest Pork Barrel Seen

Surplus War Property Disposal Seen As Potential Huge Pork Barrel

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Assistant attorney general Norman M. Littell today called surplus war property disposal "the greatest potential pork barrel in history" and accused war property administrator William L. Clayton of ignoring views of his agricultural land advisory committee.

Littell protested before the senate national defense committee—formerly the Truman committee—against Clayton's turning over farm land disposal to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

He opposed what he said was the RFC policy of selling through brokers, asserting that "the broker's natural customer is the man with money," and that the broker is interested in getting high values and not in "social policies" of seeing that veterans and small farmers get preference.

Littell disclosed that the land division he heads and which serves all agencies except RFC and TVA in land transactions was overlooked when Clayton formed his farm land advisory committee. The committee wanted originally, he added, to turn farm lands over to the agriculture department and mineral forest and grazing lands to the interior department.

Littell's statement, urging division on lands between the two departments, widened inter-agency strife over who shall handle disposal of the 12 million acres acquired for war purposes.

Truman Backer Of Unified Command For Army And Navy

Democratic Nominee For Vice President Expresses Views On Controversial Subject

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS).—United States Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, pleaded today for a unified command of the U. S. Army and Navy in order that future disaster might be avoided.

In an article in today's issue of Collier's magazine, Sen. Truman charged that a divided command of the nation's armed forces was an open invitation to catastrophe. He said: "The bitter lessons of the last few years make it plain that we can rely no longer on chance and luck. The nation's safety must have a more solid foundation. An obvious first step is a consolidation of the Army and the Navy that will put all of our defensive and offensive strength under one tent and one authoritative responsible command—absolute cohesion instead of independent departments and agencies, each with its own pride of identity, prejudices and jealous rivalries."

The vice-presidential nominee called for "one team, with all the reins in one hand." He defended his proposal as "not radical" but cited that Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson and Franklin considered national defense "indivisible."

Military Service In Peacetime For U. S. Youth Urged

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(INS).—Peace time military service for American youths to prepare for international emergencies was advocated today by Lt. Col. Raymond J. Kelly, an aide to Lt. Gen. Breton Sumner, chief of army service forces.

Addressing delegates to the 26th annual State American Legion convention at Harrisburg, Kelly said he was assured the Legion "world continue to follow the policy of a quarter of a century and advocate a strong national defense at all times, including the training of our youth to meet the burdens of war should it ever be forced upon them."

A past national commander, Kelly pointed out that Americans would be better equipped if they had been given a year of military service "in their late teens."

"We advocate this," Kelly said, "not because we feel another war will come in our lifetime but because, nonetheless, we are not sure it won't."

"Surely," Kelly declared, "the preparing of the youth of our nation for whatever might come is very important, and if that service is never called for the year's training will stand the American citizen in good stead throughout his life."

Brig. Gen. Wharton Killed In France

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS).—Brig. Gen. James E. Wharton, 45, the seventh general officer killed in action since Pearl Harbor, was listed today as a fatality in France.

The War department said that Wharton, whose assignment in France had not been disclosed, was killed in action on Aug. 12. No further details were given.

Wharton is survived by his widow, Mrs. Madelyn Burke Wharton, who resides at Staunton, Va., and two sons, Edward 16, and Robert, 15, both students at the Staunton military academy.

Only 25 per cent of the World War II veterans discharged through hospitals from May 1, 1940, to the present have been returned to jobs they held before entering the service.

Oil Flows From Water Faucets In Home In Illinois

BATAVIA, Ill., Aug. 18.—(INS).—The vision H. O. Bivens, had of sudden wealth dissipated today, but the mystery of what caused oil to flow from the water taps in his home, south of Batavia, for 36 hours, remained an unsolved mystery.

Before the "gusher" quit flowing Bivens, a sheet metal instructor at the Illinois training school for boys at St. Charles, took samples to Prof. Clarence R. Smith of the geology department at Aurora college, who analyzed them as crude oil.

A close check revealed no breaks in the pipe lines on the Bivens place, but showed the water storage tank full of oil rather than water. The only possible answer to the mystery, Bivens said, is that blasting operations nearby may have opened a channel from an oil pocket to his well.

Governor Dewey To Make Address In Philadelphia

By LEO W. O'BRIEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALBANY, Aug. 18.—Carrying his drive for the White House into the camp of the opposition, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey mapped plans today for an early September invasion of Pennsylvania and Kentucky, two of the states which gave their electoral votes to President Roosevelt in 1936 and 1940.

With 46 electoral votes at stake in the two states, the Republican presidential nominee will speak in Philadelphia on September 7 and Louisville on September 8. Both talks will be broadcast nationally and one, the Louisville address, is expected to include a special plea for the women's vote, which will be proportionately the largest in history.

Members of Gov. Dewey's staff refrained from stating that the Philadelphia and Louisville speeches will be the first of the campaign, indicating the possibility he may deliver a Labor Day talk in one of the large eastern cities, perhaps in New England.

Border State Doubtful

Although Kentucky has not given its electoral votes to a Republican since 1928, it is one of the border states where the Republicans believe they have a fighting chance for victory. Pennsylvania, too, is regarded as a doubtful state. Four years ago, President Roosevelt carried Kentucky by 147,000 votes and Pennsylvania by 281,000 votes.

Gov. Dewey will speak in the Convention Hall at Philadelphia and in the Armory at Louisville. His talk in the latter city will climax a two-day meeting of the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, which is inaugurating, in connection with the speech, a series of "neighborhood listening-in" parties throughout the nation. The federation consists of 4,000 women's Republican clubs with a total membership of 300,000.

The Philadelphia trip will be Gov. Dewey's second visit to Pennsylvania since his nomination. It also will bring him back to the scene of

Large Crowd At Sparlight Cruise

Coast Guard Program At Cathedral Thursday Night Well Received

In crisp white uniforms, the boys and girls of the Coast Guard "Sparlight Cruise" kept the large audience in the cathedral auditorium constantly applauding Thursday evening, as they shifted from solid live to brassy martial music with smooth skill.

Under the direction of Chief George Rachford, the program opened with the playing of the Coast Guard song, "Semper Paratus", and closed with the "Star Spangled Banner." Announcer Doris Middleton, a SPAR from Columbus, Ohio, kept the numbers moving smoothly along, joining in a few of them herself.

Receiving an ovation worthy of Sinatra, Gene Schile, composer-trumpetist in the Coast Guard band, sang several songs, including some of his own. Another number which brought down the house was blonde blues singer Dottie Luther's rendition of "Torchy Tess" and "Salt Lake City Blues."

Two Harry James rivals were trumpet players George Wanser, who played sweet, and Gene Chard, who played hot. Gene Chard's number was arranged by one of the Coast Guardsmen, Ray Brabek. Another arranger in the band was Lou Hitler, who turned out a powerful medley of Gershwin tunes.

Slightly unexpected was the neat flitterbugging by George Evans of Chattanooga and SPAR Gerry Marsh from Boston. Comedy was taken care of by Ray Niemoeller, his pickaninny baby doll, and the song "Is You Is, Or Is You Ain't My Baby?" Joining SPARS Middleton and Luther, Dottie O'Hara, Mary Coolen and Gerry Marsh formed the girls' quartet, while Dave Wright, Gene Schile, Doris Middleton and Dottie Luther were the Coast Guard's quartet.

At the conclusion of the program, SPAR Middleton introduced SPAR Rita Hansen who will be stationed at the Mountain Inn hotel today and Saturday, from noon until nine o'clock, to talk to girls interested in joining the SPARS, and to seven-year old boys who would like to get into the Coast Guard.

During the evening, Commander George Hunt of Nesimack post 315, Veterans of Foreign Wars, which sponsored the Sparlight Cruise, complimented the group on their performance, and spoke briefly on the need for girls in the Coast Guard Women's Reserve.

Putting cucumbers in too strong a salt, sugar, or vinegar solution will cause them to shrivel.

Ground spices or hard water may cause pickles to darken. Iron in the water or in the cooking utensils also cause pickles to darken. The true color of homemade pickles is olive green and not bright green.

Commonly known as "hardening of the arteries," arteriosclerosis inevitably occurs in persons who live long enough.

Pickles are likely to be soft and slippery if they are not covered with brine, if the brine is too weak, if they are stored in too warm a place, or if cooked too long. Soft pickles cannot be made hard again.

Hollow pickles are often the result of faulty development of the cucumber. If cucumbers stand too long after pickling before they are put into brine, the pickles may be hollow.

Good home-made pickles are the delight of every homemaker. Though they may not store up great food value, pickles with their spicy tang and crispness can pep up winter meals when they seem dull.

Sometimes homemade pickles are not tip-top because something happened in the pickling process. Common troubles in making pickles at home are soft, slippery pickles; hollow shriveled, or dark colored pickles.

General Wainwright Is Still Alive And Talks With Red Cross

Hero Of Bataan Says 'Red Cross Relief Supplies Are Badly Needed'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the hero of Bataan, was interviewed by a Red Cross representative recently and said that conditions at his Jap prison camp were "as good as can be reasonably expected." It was disclosed Thursday.

Red Cross headquarters in Washington revealed that a delegate of the International Red Cross committee talked with Gen. Wainwright and Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Beebe and Capt. George T. Scholey within the last 90 days. The three were taken prisoners by the enemy after the fall of Bataan.

Wainwright told the delegate that relief supplies received from the Red Cross via the exchange ship Gripsholm were useful. He added that more canned food and warm clothing would be appreciated. Other American prisoners in "Camp V" asked for more relief supplies and better mail service.

Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Red Cross, said that the needs of prisoners held by Japan are fully understood by the U. S. government and the Red Cross. He added that efforts still are being pressed to make possible the shipment of supplies through a Soviet Pacific port.

Slippery Rock Churches Share In Kelly Estate

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Four churches today shared in the $98,000 estate of Frank Kelly, who died July 8. Included were the United Presbyterian and Methodist churches at Slippery Rock. Most of the balance of the estate was divided among relatives.

A silversmith known as St. Elol, is the patron saint of French goldsmiths. He lived from 588 to 659 A.D., organized the first guild and secured permission from the government for it to be its own law-making body with privileges. This was the earliest guild known.

Dorsey And Hall Case Bogs Down

Actor Hall Is Loath To Sign Criminal Complaint In Case

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Action on the Tommy Dorsey-Jon Hall front bogged down today as Hall, invited to sign criminal complaints against his alleged attackers during the melee of two weeks ago in Dorsey's apartment, declared he was loath "to rush into things."

"A matters like this requires a lot of consideration," said the actor, who had said earlier that his injuries received in the fight were of such a serious character as to endanger his life.

Hall disclosed that he had returned to work at his studio, filming "Queen of the Nile," and said that the scheduled conference with his attorney, with whom he wanted to talk before deciding whether to sign the complaints, "would have to be postponed for a day or two."

"Anyway, I don't want to rush into it," he said.

District Attorney Fred N. Hower has said that in event Hall declines to sign the complaints "for whatever reasons" the entire case would be taken before the county grand jury when it reconvenes September 5.

Then there is the chap who spent ten thousand dollars building and furnishing a modern home and spends all his spare time living in a trailer.

Mrs. Charles Roush of Gary, Ind., sat down at her desk to write her husband—stationed in the Solomon Islands, for two years—a letter. "Gee, I wish you were here," Mrs. Roush wrote, and as she looked up from her desk—there he was grinning at her.

Warrant Officer Roush had written a letter before he left the island saying that he was coming home, but his airplane beat the letter.

Governor Dewey Stirs Democrats

Statements Issued Rapidly
Assailing Dewey's Warning On Four-Power
Alliance

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Democratic fury against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for his warning against a permanent four-power military alliance and "synical power politics" grew by leaps and bounds today.

The Republican presidential candidate was bluntly accused of playing politics with the international situation, on the eve of commencement of discussions here between the four great powers on the form of a world post-war organization.

A visit to the capitol by Democratic national chairman Robert E.
Hanftman was followed by a flood of senatorial statements denouncing
Mr. Dewey.

Newsman Amazed

While Mr. Hanftman told reporters he visited the capitol only on some organizational matters, the remarkable rapidity with which the statements flowed from a central source amazed newsmen.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyo., chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, denounced Dewey's statement as "a shocking act of political sabotage against the peace of the world."

"It is reminiscent of the statements which were issued by the isolationists of 1920 when they first began their attacks upon the league of nations," he said.

Sen. James Tamm (D, Del., accused Dewey of repeatedly changing his position on international matters.

"With his statement of Wednesday, expressing deep worry over a permanent four-power military alliance, Thomas E. Dewey has just pulled the brass ring that entitles him to another whirl on his own political merry-go-round," said
Tamm.

Asserts Stand Changed
He quoted Gov. Dewey as saying in 1943 that a military alliance of the United States, Russia, China and Great Britain has "infinite possibilities."

Dewey, he said, at first opposed lend-lease for Britain and Russia and then came out in favor of it.
In April, he said, he called for "durable cohesion" between the four great powers and now backs away from it.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R,
Mich., however, declared that most Americans will agree with the governor "in his forthright statement that ultimate peace with justice in a free world can never be founded on permanent military alliance or power politics."

One thing many political observers agreed upon, however, was that Dewey's statement puts the international issue into the national political campaign.

BENGALIESE BILLIE TAKES COOL DIP AT DETROIT ZOO

SWIMMING TIGERS are an oddity, but Billie, husky from Bengal, housed at Detroit's Royal Oak zoo, is smart enough to realize the cooling aspects of a dip in his private pool. Top left, he executes a graceful entrance into the water; at right, splash session banishes the city's over 95-degree temperature, and lower left, feeling refreshed, Billie swims smoothly to shore. (International)

SEEK TO HALT WAR WORKERS LEAVING JOBS

Public To Be Informed On So-Called Contract 'Terminations' And 'Cut-Backs'

By JAMES POWERS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The army air forces launched a far-reaching educational program today designed to acquaint the public and those directly concerned with war production with the truth about so-called contract "terminations" and "cut-backs."

Frankly alarmed by the growing number of war workers who are beginning to quit their war jobs and look after their own postwar plans on the basis of often misleading or untruthful rumors of cuts in war production, the air force material and procurement divisions want American workers to understand what lays back termination and cut-back talk.

Terminations have been going on ever since July, 1942, Col. Edwin S. Pillsbury, chief of the terminations section of the material command disclosed.

"Since then we have had approximately 6,000 total or partial terminations," he said. "Involving approximately six billion dollars. Very few, if any, of these cancellations have any relation to a possible cessation of hostilities."

The majority, as he and other ACP officers explained, were designed to speed rather than cut production. Changing tactics, strategies and training plans dictated most of them. Such is still the case in many instances today.

"We are still producing approximately 8,000 planes per month," Pillsbury disclosed. "The number the air staff believes it is necessary to see the job through."

However, the air corps is carefully planning for the day when it will be necessary to slash production of all plane production and the men charged with "unwinding" the great machine set up to produce the weapons of war are being carefully chosen.

Col. Edwin Rawlins, chief of the readjustment division of the material command, pointed out that in all possibility as high as 85 to 90 per cent of the materials used in plane production will be good for nothing but scrap.

Eighth Air Force Has Great Record

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The United States Eighth Air Force, in two years of operation in the European theater, has flown 301,000 sorties and released 300,000 tons of pounds on enemy territory, headquarters announced Thursday.

More than 8,500 enemy planes were destroyed in combat and 1,150 others destroyed on the ground.

The Eighth Air Force in this time lost 4,900 heavy bombers and fighters.

Johnson Presents Program To Halt Next World War

Legion Convention Speaker Charges That Politicians 'Squandered The Peace'

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, charged Thursday afternoon that politicians "squandered" the peace and outlined a three-point program to avoid another world conflict in 1960.

"We who gather here, represent those who won the war and we came home and let the politicians squander the peace," Johnson told delegates to the 26th annual state American Legion convention at Harrisburg.

Johnson's three-point program embraced:

"First, a general good neighbor policy effective throughout the world."

"Second, a discussion and examination between all nations of situations which may menace war."

"Third, an agreement that all nations will use the forces they have to see that the law is kept and peace maintained."

"In my opinion," he said, "the greatest mistake that Hitler and Hirohito made was in bringing on this war while we realize that peace that should have presented this war was squandered."

"This first job is to win this war conclusively and decisively," Johnson emphasized. "That will be done."

"In that field," he declared, "the Legion, the veterans of World Wars I and II, must lead the way."

"We owe a debt to the many thousand Americans, young, clean and vigorous, who have found soldiers' graves in foreign lands," he added, "these men have saved our country, our homes and our lives. They have saved the nation. We must never forget that."

Col. Edwin Rawlins, chief of the readjustment division of the material command, pointed out that in all possibility as high as 85 to 90 per cent of the materials used in plane production will be good for nothing but scrap.

Training Adds To Local Labor Supply

Agencies Offer Training Programs To War Industries Through War Manpower Commission

With a serious shortage showing up in almost every type of labor needed for war production, training of new and inexperienced workers, up-grading of unskilled and semi-skilled workers, and other training programs have steadily increased in value as a solution, George R. Gettings, manager of the New Castle office of the United States Employment service stated today.

Through the War Manpower Commission's training bureau, the resources of five different groups are brought to bear on every conceivable training problem of industry, said Mr. Gettings. The training programs available are the Apprentice Training Service; Training Within Industry; Vocational Training for War Production Workers; Engineering Science and management War Training; and Food Production War Training.

Employers call upon the services of these specialized training agencies by applying to WMC's training representative—in this area, George MacMillan. A training council in each area decided where, when, and to what extent training is needed, and each agency is then responsible for the operation of its own program.

Cooperation of the public schools has been an outstanding factor in the success of the overall training program. Mr. Gettings continued. Special courses have been set up for coal mining, and for railroads. A refrigeration course is in the process of being set up in New Castle, as it has already in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and several other cities, through the cooperation of the school system and the employment service.

Babson Advises Against Following With Crowd

By ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright—1944—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 18.—I think it can statistically be proven that the public is usually wrong in its forecasting of real estate, commodity and investment problems. Certainly those who "follow the crowd" lose money in the end, while those who do the opposite usually make money. Furthermore, those who act differently from the "crowd" perform a real service and are entitled to a good profit for their independence and courage. Let me this week give three illustrations.

Filling Stations
Those who drive about the country today must be impressed by the number of vacant filling stations. Not only are these found in the woods, but also in the active suburbs of our cities. I am sure that every one of the thousand or more communities where my column is read has these vacant filling stations. In most cases the pumps have either been removed or boarded up. They may be closed for lack of business or because the owner has gone into the service or important war work.

Of course it is self-evident that with cars on the road reduced by millions and with the gasoline and tire restrictions, fewer filling stations can profitably exist today than was the case before the war. On the other hand, it seems only common sense that most of these closed filling stations will open up again after the war. They then may have just as good, and perhaps better, business. Many of these filling stations are for sale at a distinct discount from their pre-war prices; they appear to me to be one of the best bargains available today. The "crowd" are neglecting them and act as if the war would last forever, but there will be a few wise persons who will soon begin to pick them up. In some cases, the purchasers will operate them themselves; while in others they will sell them at a good profit.

Vacant Stores
As I go about various cities I am greatly impressed with the number of vacant small stores. In some cases the proprietor has been drafted into the service or has found he could make more money in war work. In other cases the help problems and the difficulties of securing merchandise have compelled the closing of the store. Probably 250,000 of these stores have been closed during the past three years. In the meantime, the total retail sales of the country have constantly been increasing.

Most of these stores will reopen at a profit. The proprietor of a small store has many advantages over the owner of a large store. The small store proprietor usually leases, and hence is in a position to change his location when circumstances make it desirable. He is exempt from various labor restrictions and taxes to which the large store is subject. Most important, he can buy nationally advertised single-priced goods and sell them in competition with the chain and other large stores. Furthermore, there always will be a large number of people who wish to deal with a small neighborhood store rather than be lost in a large department store or bullied by the clerk of a chain store. The "crowd" are neglecting these vacant stores; but the few wise people who are re-renting them and starting a small business will some day be rewarded.

Getting Jobs
I do not criticize anyone for giving up a good peace job to go into war work if the motive is patriotic. When, however, the motive is to get more money I believe that the person is merely "following the crowd" and will sooner or later regret having made the change. Already many of these people are seeing their mistakes and are trying to get back to peace jobs. Certainly, this is not a patriotic thing to do except with the approval of the local U. S. Employment Service.

Those who have been loyal to their old employers and have not "followed the crowd" into new jobs, just to get more money, will soon feel repaid for their loyalty. Hence, whether we consider real estate or businesses or jobs, the most satisfaction in the end comes to those who refuse to "follow the crowd". Integrity, industry and vision are good dividends when we take time to study the facts and have the courage to act upon our decisions.

Flag Of Free France Carried In Procession

Men Of French Underground Hunt Down Last Germans Hiding Out

By VAUGHAN THOMAS
BBC Correspondent, Heard by CBS.
(Distributed by International News Service)

A SMALL TOWN ON THE FRENCH RIVIERA, Aug. 18.—In a courtyard, the new officials were saluting and handshaking with the first of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's representatives.

Then, around the corner, you came across the men of the underground hunting down the last Germans hiding out in a nearby house, and young Nazi fanatics changing into civilian clothes, still fighting from the roof opposite, and, perhaps, in a corner, a young girl suspected of associating with Germans having her head shaved by indignant patriots.

And, through it all, I saw the flag of Free France being carried proudly in front of the funeral procession of two young men of the Maquis, who had been killed in the fighting. Tragedy and triumph are mingled in these streets.

You can't help feeling that something great and vital now is struggling to find expression, something that has been suppressed long in France.

An old professor of one of the local Lycees put it to me this way: "Today we are free, and we haven't yet got used to it, and we in our turn now must realize that."

We are acting here entirely through the officially appointed Free French civil affairs. They have to be consulted on everything.

An American officer wished to issue a poster inviting all local inhabitants to hand in their carrier pigeons; pigeons which might be used to send messages to the enemy. Very properly, this American officer consulted the French official on the spot.

"By all means," came the reply, "issue it. Your poster can do no harm at all, because, you see, as for the pigeons, we've eaten them all."

Ellwood Man Is Candidate

Dennis Cane In Race For Election As Legion Western District Commander

By JAMES H. SMITH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—The election of three district vice commanders of the Pennsylvania department of the American Legion and the scheduled adoption of 85 resolutions highlighted today's session of the 26th annual convention at Harrisburg.

William J. Rhoads of Glenolden, who served overseas with the 53rd division during World War I, was slated to be elected departmental commander tomorrow, succeeding Francis X. Murray of Scranton.

Resolutions ready for adoption today embraced requests for federal and state aid for the veterans of World War II including the construction of several hospitals in Pennsylvania to provide medical treatment for the wounded.

Awards were scheduled to be made during the morning session to posts and Legionnaires for meritorious work in membership contests, athletics and community service.

While Harry K. Stinger of the U.S. naval home in Philadelphia appeared unopposed for re-election as national executive committee member, a little loomed over two of the district commanders.

Homer D. Sarge of Pine Grove and Griffith D. Lloyd of East Stroudsburg were the leading contenders for the eastern district command while Albert Nichols of Lock Haven apparently was unopposed for the general district post.

Dennis Cane, Ellwood City, and Joseph A. Straub, Johnstown, were boomed for the western district command.

The delegates, representing 103,000 comrades, adopted unanimously a resolution at yesterday's session calling for the immediate revocation of all "special privileges" granted Italian war prisoners by the federal government.

Leon Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, scored politicians for "squandering" the peace and outlined a three-point plan to avoid another world war in 1960.

He urged a "good neighbor policy" throughout the world, an examination of situations leading to war and international agreements pledging the use of "forces" to maintain peace.

ACCIDENT AT LISBON

LISBON, O., Aug. 18.—Dr. F. Turek, 45 of Cleveland, a dentist returned to his home today after treatment for injuries suffered last night, when an automobile, in which he was a passenger, overturned twice at the foot of an embankment after striking the guard rail of a Beaver creek bridge along U.S. route 30.

Sheriff George E. Hayes said the car was driven by Miss Martha Reed, also of Cleveland, who lost control of it while descending a grade. She was unhurt.

S-Sgt. R. R. Rook Gets Added Decoration

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Rook, of 913 Warren avenue, have received word that their son, Staff Sergeant Robert R. Rook, attached to the 15th Air Force in Italy, has been awarded his second Oak Leaf Cluster of Bronze for the Air Medal. This "For meritorious achievement in aerial flight while participating in sustained operational activities against the enemy between June 27 and July 19, 1944, by command of Major General Twining."

Welfare-Relief To Be Discussed

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Fifteen states were slated today to be represented at a two-day conference on social welfare and relief problems at Harrisburg, starting August 24, sponsored by the Council of State Governments.

Rep. Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, committee chairman and majority floor leader of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, will preside.

Relief, unemployment compensation, veterans' benefits, employment service, social security legislation and postwar reconstruction, were on the agenda.

Delegates will attend from Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Sculptor Is Making Bust Of Governor

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin looked forward today to the completion of a bronze bust of himself by Raymond G. Barger, nationally known sculptor of New York City, who volunteered to do the job because the governor once did him a favor.

The chief executive said that Barger, for whom he once secured a college scholarship, wrote him recently for permission to make the bust.

Barger, 38 years old, attended Mt. Morris high school in Greene county.

Postal Clerks Seeking Raises

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania branch of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks today appealed for pay raises to offset the increased costs of living.

The bonus act which had aided them in the past, expires next year, the association pointed out, and bills are now before congress which would boost mail employees' pay by about 20 per cent.

MOTORCYCLE DRIVER SUSTAINS BRUISES

About four o'clock, Thursday afternoon, Bill James of Winslow avenue, sustained bruises when he was thrown from his motorcycle on East Washington street, near West avenue.

It is reported that young James, in passing an automobile, collided with a truck, and in rolling off the motorcycle much of the lower part of his clothing was torn off. Donald Moore of East Washington street soon came to the rescue with another pair of trousers.

The handlebars of the machine were broken off, but little more damage was done.

Harbour Grace, N. F., Has Large Fire Loss

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 18.—(INS)—Damage from a four-hour fire that swept the business section of Harbour Grace, second city of New Foundland, was estimated today at more than $3,000,000. Between forty and fifty buildings in the coastal town which became famed as the takeoff point for early trans-Atlantic flights were destroyed. Two hotels, the post office and telephone exchange were among the buildings wrecked by the blaze.

Counterfeit Gas Stamps Cause Of Jail Sentence

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Joseph P. Urbanowicz today was under a four-month jail sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of handling counterfeit gasoline ration stamps at his Ambridge filling station.

Federal agents testified that Urbanowicz purchased $3,000 in counterfeit A and B stamps from another man, whose identity was not disclosed.

County Richer By Big Numbers Raid

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Allegheny county authorities today were in possession of $400 in cash, four adding machines and a four-day supply of numbers slips confiscated in a raid on what they declared to be the numbers racket headquarters of Braddock and Rankin.

Chief Joseph M. Stack reported that slips estimated in excess of $5,000 for yesterday's play alone were included in the haul.

GOOD NEWS FOR BUSINESS MEN

The post-war world will see a tremendous growth of small business in America. One of the major problems will be credit. The American Bankers Association, of which we are a member, has just established a new Post-War Small Business Credit Commission to mobilize the credit facilities of banks for this purpose. Business men can be sure that American banking will serve them as well in peace as in war.

Girls Conclude 4-H Club Event

County Roundup Takes Place Here Thursday—Winners Get Awards

Going from the county fair atmosphere of their morning program to that of the theater for the afternoon, the 200 girls attending the 4-H Round-Up Thursday in the First United Presbyterian church, Albert street and Glenmore Blvd., finished their day with the awarding of ribbons for the year's work.

Opening with the presentation of "I Am An American" by the Stitches-Baste-Bedford Pace club, the program continued with the singing of "America, the Beautiful." Invocation was given by Dorothy Hughes, and the roll call by Joan Runk.

Style Show
Following the expression of appreciation to the leaders, given by Mary Munn, the clothing club members were given a chance to show off their work in a style revue.

Music for the revue was provided by Edna Porteus and her accordion.

Plumage, Harlanburg, Silver Thimble, and Junior Miss clubs all entertained with songs, while the West Pittsburg 4-H girls danced.

"Tarantella," a piano solo by Rosemary Audia, was followed by a demonstration of the right kind of somemaking by the Mahoning Happy Homemakers club. The girls made beds, arranged flowers, set tables, and gave a few pointers on courtesy in the home.

Dramatic Skit
Toys for children were displayed by the New Wilmington and Fayette clubs. "Victory Speeders" from Fayette also went dramatic and acted out "Little Orphan Allie." Other dramatic skits were put on by the Princeton club and the W. M. S. S. club.

Most impressive event of the whole day was the "angelighting" service at the conclusion. Four girls, representing the four parts of the 4-H program—head, heart, health, and hands, lit their candles from the spirit of 4-H, and in turn circled the room lighting the candles of all the other girls.

Winners In Roundup
Efforts of the 4-H girls, both as clubs and as individuals, were rewarded by Miss Josephine Simpson, home economics extension representative, near the end of the afternoon.

Four clubs, the Washington M. W. S. S. Rose Point, Hickory Chattering Chums and Mahoning, all won the coveted gold seal characters for perfect work. Silver characters were given to Hickory Junior Miss, Plaingrove, Matheny, Princeton and Fayette clubs.

Girls who won blue ribbons for sewing were Audrey Brun, Ruth Smith, Janet Armstrong, Joan Armstrong, Beverly Forbes, Martha Martin, Gertrude Stutler, Elsie Mae Trusel, Erma Jane Twentius, Mary Ann Waring, Edna Pontius, Loreta Raab, Goldie Sickafuse, Grace Sicker, Carol Ziegler, Betty Barker, Joan Barker, Nancy Jean Gaskler, Nancy Lee McKim, Mary Chaplin, Carol Foster, Eleanor Kendall, Doris Quigley, Peggy Smith, Patricia Brown, Frances Ilich, Betty Walsh, Ruth Ann Brittain and Rosalie Umstead.

Other blue ribbon seamstresses were Shirley Hairhogger, Thelma Jackson, Kathryn James, Lillie Mae McAnlis, Margie McAnlis, Bernice Nicholas, Rosemary Audia, Alice Hicks, Eleanor Brennenner, Edyee Harlan, Marilyn Kamerer, Esther Mallinak, Ann Hammerschmidt, Donna Neely and Kathryn Winder.

This House Was Doomed To Burn

Series Of Circumstances Results In Boarding House Going Up In Flames

MT. KISCO, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(INS)—Mrs. McGuire's boarding house was in ashes today—and only fate was to blame.

The three-story frame building belonging to Mrs. John McGuire began to burn when it was struck by lightning last night but that was only the beginning.

The alarm was turned in and the fire department's new automatic fire alarm system should have sounded. But it didn't, it had been struck by lightning, too.

Police took over the summoned members of the three fire companies by telephone. The volunteers piled out of their homes and hurried to the fire house.

The fire engines roared in the direction of Mrs. McGuire's rapidly diminishing boarding house. But they roared only as far as the railroad tracks.

There sat two New York Central trains, completely blocking the only available crossing.

When they finally pulled out, firemen reached the scene of the fire. Mrs. McGuire's house had burned down.

Army And Navy Men
Take Over Shipyard

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS)—Army and Navy service men were at work today on vessels in the Bethlehem Steel shipyards in the absence of 400 striking laborers who protested a War Labor Board decision.

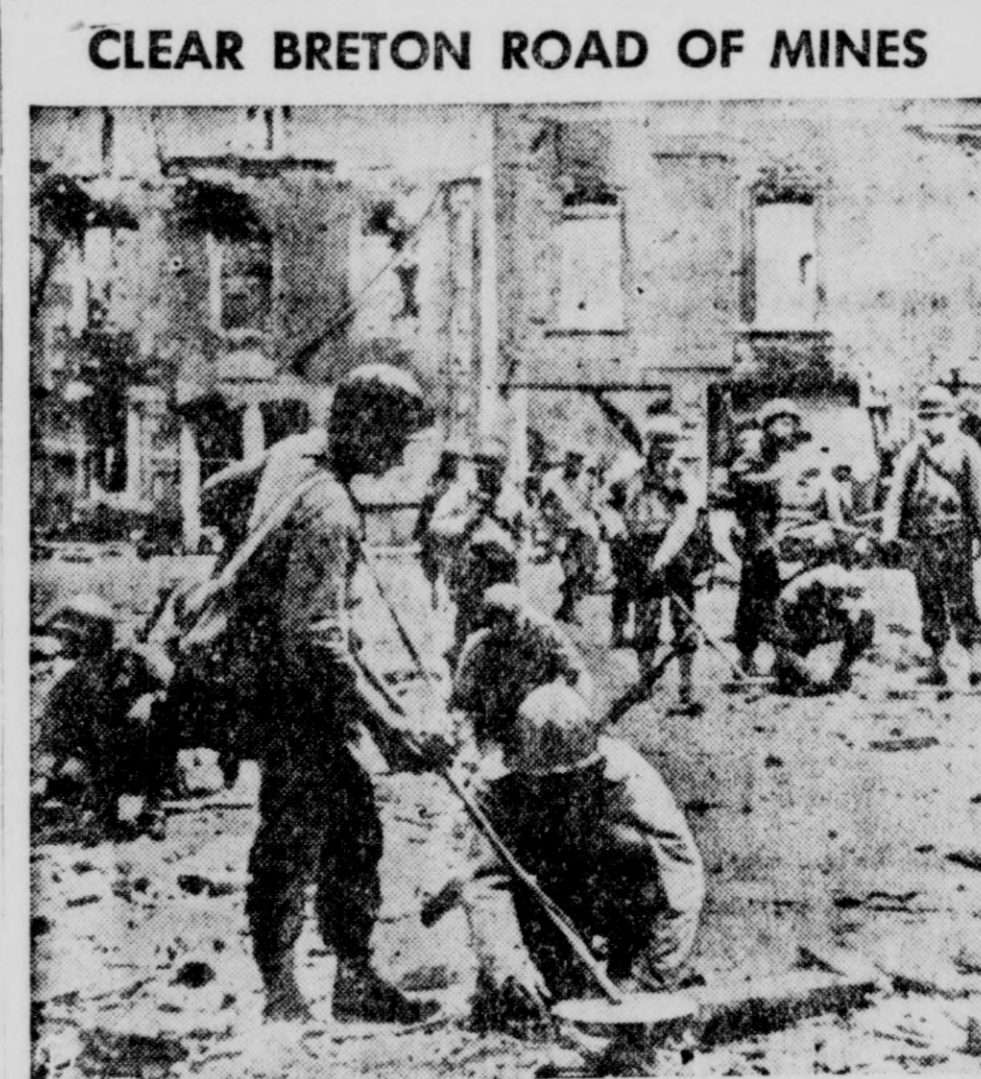

The Army and Navy sent 248 soldiers and sailors to the Brooklyn plant to remove debris from an Army hospital ship and several Navy vessels. The debris, forming a fire hazard, has held up welding and other work.

The 400 striking laborers are members of the CIO. They walked out when the WLB granted wage increases to certain skilled classifications but denied them to the laborers.

OPA Planning Price Policy

Plan Five-Point Post-War Transition Period Guaged To Control Relaxation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The office of price administration today announced a five-point post-war transition period pricing policy designed to progressive relaxation of wartime controls and based on the assumption that production will be "far above that of 1940."

OPA administrator Chester Bowles told a news conference that reconversion period prices must be high enough to protect producers but that high volume production must be maintained to achieve full employment and high purchasing power.

Bowles said OPA would continue its efforts to hold the line on cost of living, and promised that price and rent controls would be retained only as long as necessary.

Frequent Checks

Prices of civilian goods which have been available during wartime will be pegged at present levels, he said, but items returning to production will be priced immediately on either a company or industry-wide basis.

The OPA chief promised that price controls will be checked frequently during the transition period with a view to eliminating inequalities.

In authorizing price increases, Bowles said, OPA will give primary consideration to higher wage rates and material costs in particular firms or industries. He said some 50 to 60 requests for reconversion price lists have been filed with the agency.

Bowles indicated that overall transition period prices may not be drastically increased, and expressed the opinion that postwar automobiles would not cost 25 to 40 percent more than in peacetime. He said 20 manufacturers of electric irons have already agreed to retain their March, 1942, price levels.

Agents Find Dope And Chinese Hero

On Trail Of Opium, New York Agents Discover Chinese Sailor Who Jumped Ship

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 18.—(INS)—The trail that police followed to find a suspected Chinese opium peddler today had led also to a modest young Chinese war hero.

Newark officers followed Lee Cheong, 67, to his dwelling and found a quantity of dope. There they also ran onto a huddled figure, sleeping on a cot, who was roused and taken along to headquarters. Police found that the young Chinese—Teng Cheong—had jumped ship at Baltimore last March after 18 months in the British merchant marine. They also found on the youth a silver medal, awarded personally by King George VI of England, July 6, 1943. Questioning revealed a modest account from the seaman how he had manned his ship's gun and sank a German submarine in the English channel. He is to be turned over to a British consul, who perhaps can forget a little matter like jumping ship.

Asserts Social Security Act Needs Changes

By EARLE MARCKREES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Sen. Walter F. George (D. Ga.), chairman of the Senate finance committee, said today Congress must undertake general revision of the social security act next winter.

"The whole social security act will have to be given consideration and perhaps rewritten," he said. "It is certain that Congress will want to make some changes, now that we have more experience to guide us."

The revision program is expected to provoke long and heated controversy.

Proposals for health and medical services, bringing in charges of attempt to socialize medicine, may precipitate a bitter battle in the next Congress.

To Equalize Pensions

An effort will be made, George said, to equalize old age pension provisions. Under the old age benefit provisions—apart from the annuity plan supported by pay-roll taxes—the Federal government will match state old-age pension grants up to $26 a month for each person.

"Inequality of payments among the states presents a problem," said George. "When the act was passed in 1937 a strong fight was made to minimize the inequality."

One proposal made by the social security board is that Congress appropriate more funds for old-age pensions in the so-called "poor" states. Pension payments are especially low in many southern states.

Most controversial proposal, however, is expected to be the extension of health and medical services was embraced in the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill.

This proposal, along with broadening the act in the so-called "cradle-to-the-grave" program, would involve a steep increase in pay-roll taxes, probably to six per cent each on employer and worker.

Reinforcements Reach Brest

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—American assault units have brought up reinforcements to the Brest sector and a new onslaught on the port is imminent, the German DNB agency reported today.

Farm products have to grow out doors under a blue sky, but not prices. On the principle of the greatest good for the greatest number, prices should be under a ceiling.

Course In Typing For WAC Recruits

Non-Typists Among WAC Recruits Assigned To Air Force Will Take Month's Course

Due to the shortage of WAC recruits with typing ability and the large number of untrained recruits now on file for WAC clerical personnel with this ability, arrangements have been made to establish an intensive four weeks' typing course at each of the WAC centers. It was announced today by Cpl. Phyllis Soucy of the local WAC recruiting office in the post office building.

The course will be given immediately on completion of basic training to all army air force non-typing clerical enlistees except those who, in the opinion of the classification officers, are unsuited for assignment to jobs requiring typing ability.

Jap Shipping Is Restricted

Many Jap Bases Now Dependent On Small Ships Is Indication

U. S. AIRMEN HALT HEAVY SHIPPING

By GEORGE LAIT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HQ., New Guinea, Aug. 18.—(INS)—A 1,000-ton freighter in Jap-held Davao Gulf in the Philippines was halted today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command as an indication that Jap heavy shipping was restricted to one territory behind the Philippines-Cebu-Ceram line.

The report that U. S. night aerial patrols had destroyed a Jap freighter at Davao, the command said, proved that Jap bases on Halmahera, Ceram and in the Banda and Arafura seas were now completely dependent on small ships, sailing vessels and local craft, which cannot provide a sufficiency of aviation gas and munitions for the enemy outposts.

More Halmahera Attacks

Continued aerial neutralization attacks on Halmahera, Jap base 300 miles south of the Philippines, were reported by heavy bombers showing 47 tons of explosives on Milidrome and nearby installations. In the raid, 23 parked Jap planes were destroyed or damaged and large fires were started in Jap supply areas.

No Jap aerial interception was attempted during the raid, and other bomber formations winged east of Halmahera to hit Jap installations on the Aji islands without Jap aerial resistance.

American aerial patrols hit the Vogelkop area of Dutch New Guinea while fighters bombed and strafed enemy positions on the west coast of Biak island.

In New Guinea
In the Sarmi region of the New Guinea mainland American patrols reported 362 additional enemy casualties while attack planes bombed and strafed enemy positions on the Vogelkop area. Fifty tons of bombs were dropped on Jap positions during the attack.

In British New Guinea, attack planes and fighter bombers hit enemy installations in rear areas while air and naval patrols harassed the west coast.

Night patrol bombers battered the Ulithi area of Palau in an attack which destroyed or damaged seven enemy barges.

Light bombers harassed Jap installations on New Ireland at Kahlil bay while others blasted Rabaul in New Britain with a 50-ton attack.

Patrol planes operating over Bougainville in the northern Solomons smashed at the Jap occupied coastal sector and hit targets in the Choiseul bay region.

Democrat Electors Okayed By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today had certified the 35 Democratic electors from Pennsylvania, as required by Pennsylvania state law.

The certification was accomplished by placing the presidential signature on a list of electors' names.

The list was brought to the White House by David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania state chairman of the Democratic party. He was accompanied by Sen. Joseph F. Guffey (D) Pa.

Under Pennsylvania state law certification of the electors is required to make possible for the state ballots to omit the names of the electors.

Asked if politics was discussed at the meeting, Lawrence said that there were a "few moments" of talk in which he told the president that the state of Pennsylvania would give him a greater plurality in 1944 than in 1940, when he carried the state by 278,000 votes.

During World War I, 85 American ships were launched on a single day—July 4, 1917.

VALUE OF SUMMER PASTURE SHOWN AT GRASS-LAND FIELD DAY

Dairymen and livestock producers rely heavily upon pastures and summer feed. Bluegrass, however, fails to grow during hot weather and many farmers are now forced to feed hay which was intended for winter use.

F. W. Byers and Sons of North Beaver township, are using Ladino clover and various combinations of grasses to supply summer feed. In one field seeded in the spring of 1943 an early cutting of hay was made and then permitted to grow. After it reached a suitable height the field was divided and cattle turned into small areas. After these areas became eaten, other areas were opened up and the first pasture then permitted to grow. Men who attended the Grass-Land Field Day saw areas where the Ladino clover had grown for two weeks and for four weeks. The growth during this period was remarkable, especially because of the dry weather.

The results on the Byers' farm show that areas of one acre to every four cows planted to a triple purpose pasture mixture will do much to maintain milk production during July and August.

PRESENT CARE AFFECTS NEXT YEAR'S BERRIES

Proper care of runner plants and fertilizing are the most urgent jobs facing the strawberry grower at this season. Attention to the plants now has a marked effect on next year's crop.

Maintaining a loose surface through frequent shallow cultivation encourages runner plants to take root properly. They should be spaced about 6 to 9 inches apart to hasten development of a full row of plants, about 3 feet wide.

Proper spacing not only gives much heavier total yield, but also results in larger average berry size, less decay, and better keeping quality. Three of four plants on each square foot of soil may be considered ideal. After the row has been filled with plants at such spacing, additional plants formed later in the season should be destroyed before taking root.

Fertilizer applications are also seasonable now. Nitrogenous fertilizers, such as ammonium nitrate, nitrate of soda, or sulphate of ammonia, applied in mid-August will result in a heavier set of flower buds and a higher percentage of these buds will develop into fruit next spring. An application of about 250 pounds of nitrate of soda, or its equivalent, to the acre, should be made to patches not previously fertilized. About 125 to 150 pounds should be sufficient for plantings which received an early side-dressing of nitrogen.

PULLETS LIKE TO EAT AND DRINK IN THE SHADE

Pullets find greatest comfort on hot, dry days in the open shade the range affords. The pullets spread over a considerable area when the shade is scattered.

Water will remain cool longer and serve best in cooling the fowls when the waterers are placed in such shaded areas. Then, too, location of some feeders in these shady spots will promote feed consumption during the heat of the day.

Many poultrymen follow the practice of placing some of their feeders and waterers in such shaded places. When the shelter is the sole shade available, a feeder and a waterer often are located indoors while other pieces of such equipment are scattered about the range and frequently moved to reduce the hazard of bare spots.

SHEETS THAT FIT BED GIVE BEST SERVICE

When you need new sheets, be sure to buy the size that fits the bed on which they will be used. Sheets never seem to be too long, but sometimes double width sheets are used on single or three-quarter beds.

Homemakers will find that it pays in the end to buy sheets of the correct size. Sheets that are long enough and wide enough to tuck well under the mattress and turn back over the blanket when used for a top sheet will insure greater comfort and give longer service.

When not sure of the size sheet needed it is suggested that the homemaker measure carefully the length, width, and thickness of the mattress. For a bed with inner-spring mattress or other mattress of the same thickness, the 108-inch length is most satisfactory. The 108-inch length means the torn length so with the hems turned there is a small shrinkage allowance.

The following chart will help in the selection of the correct size sheets needed:

For cots or narrow daybeds not over 30 inches wide: 54 by 99 inches or 54 by 108 inches.

For single beds not over 36 inches wide: 63 by 99 inches or 63 by 108 inches.

For twin beds, 36 to 48 inches wide: 72 by 99 inches or 72 by 108 inches.

For three-quarter beds, 48 to 54 inches wide: 72 by 99 inches, or 72 by 108 inches, or 81 by 108 inches.

For double beds, 57 to 66 inches wide: 81 by 99 inches, or 81 by 108 inches, or 90 by 108 inches.

TAXES STRICKEN OFF

In an opinion handed down by Judge W. Walter Braham the taxes on 46 acres of land in the Seventh ward, owned by the Greater New Castle Association are stricken off for the years 1940-41-42-43-44 and no future assessments will be made as long as the land is used for public purposes.

The land has been used and is in use now as a playground and it was argued that this placed it in the class of land for public use. If at any time in the future it is sold for industrial or business purposes it will be returned to the taxable lists.

Demands Full Report On War Surplus Sales

By FRANK E. ALLEN
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Sen. Carl A. Hatch, D. N. Mex., acting chairman of the Senate National Defense committee, demanded today that his committee be given a full report of all surplus war goods sales by the government.

Hatch made his request on the heels of a statement by assistant attorney general Norman H. Little that war surplus property disposal is "the greatest potential pork barrel in history."

Little, appearing as a witness before the Senate committee, charged that surplus property administrator William L. Clayton had ignored the views of his agricultural land advisory committee in determining policies for the disposal of lands acquired by the federal government as a part of the war program.

Hatch demanded "the white light of publicity" for all surplus property transactions.

He directed a staff member of the committee to call upon all government agencies to submit "full reports" on all sales of any kind of surplus property.

"Without reflecting upon any officials, it is clearly apparent the opportunities for wrong-doing, if not for actual fraud, are tremendous," Hatch said.

"Temptations to profit materially will be great."

The acting chairman said early testimony and investigations make it apparent that sales of surplus properties, including vast numbers of defense plants, running into billions of dollars in value must proceed with utmost caution.

Hatch directed that reports made before the committee shall be given Congress and be made accessible to the public, "especially press and radio and other publicity agencies."

"This course is decided upon by the committee as a preventive measure," he said.

"Where the light of publicity shines, there is little room for shrewdness and wrong doings. Forces of evil seek darkness and slum light."

Hatch made his statement as a national defense investigating committee continued its probe of surplus handling with testimony being given today by army officers and other War department officials.

Owners Hide Dogs, Barking At Thieves

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Quaker City dogs are finding people a little dull of comprehension.

When Mrs. Laura Varalli and her sister, Miss Anna De Russo, of Philadelphia, visited neighbors recently they were annoyed by the barking of several stray dogs. A few minutes later, after they'd returned home, they wished they had understood the pooches' message.

Thieves had ransacked the house and stolen $312 in money and jewelry.

The same day James T. Fielder, a druggist, admonished his 13-year-old fox terrier, Skippy, for barking. Fielder investigated when Skippy refused to pipe down, and saw two thieves fleeing the store.

The Northwest mounted police was organized in 1873.

Plan Dutch Army To Attack Indies

Force To Move From Europe After Defeat Of Germans Says Netherlands Official

By GEORGE LAIT
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-QUARTERS, Southwest Pacific—Plans for dispatch of a Dutch army from Europe to the Southwest Pacific as soon as Nazi Germany is defeated have been completed by American, British, Australian and Netherlands officials, it now may be disclosed.

The Dutch forces—which will include Royal Netherlands Navy units and air force groups as well as ground forces—will concentrate principally on recapture of the Netherlands East Indies, according to Dr. H. Van Mook, Free Dutch Minister of Colonies, who prior to the Japanese conquest was Lieutenant-General of the Indies.

Veterans To Be Used
 Van Mook, just returned from conferences with Allied military staffs in Washington and London, has conferred at length with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Australian Prime Minister Curtin concerning the plans for use of Dutch forces from Europe in the Southwest Pacific theater of war.

Nucleus of these Netherlands troops will be Dutchmen now fighting with other United Nations forces on the European front. In addition to these battle-wise veterans, other experienced Netherlands fighters now serving in the Pacific battle zones will be added to form a compact and formidable army.

In order to expedite these far-reaching plans, a new Netherlands East Indies government in Australia is to be established by royal decree. This new government will replace the present Dutch Commission which has been functioning in Melbourne since the Netherlands Pacific holdings fell to the Japanese.

Rehabilitation Planned
 Primary task of the new government will be to formulate rehabilitation plans for the Indies as soon as the Allied armies of liberation reconquer them. Provision of adequate food supplies to the starving Indonesians, speedy import of essential commodities and rapid setting-up of local industry will be included in its work.

The Japanese invaders have turned the whole of the Netherlands Indies into one vast reservoir of slave labor, according to Dutch officials. With typical Japanese "politeness" all male Indonesians have been ordered to work for their conquerors.

Instructions given by a Japanese commander to village chiefs to send their men to Japanese labor centers concluded with these words: "Those who do not come immediately will be punished. This punishment will consist of 1, light punishment, viz. to be beat with a cane; 2, heavy punishment, viz. to be beheaded."

ONLY FEW REMAIN OF CIVIL WAR VETS

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—Only a handful remain of the ranks of the once mighty Grand Army of the Republic and George Bartlow, of Northside, Cincinnati suburb, is one of the few. Bartlow, who celebrated the 101st anniversary of his birth recently, says he recalls incidents of the Civil War vividly.

"I can remember the gun they gave me when they had me surrendering the horses and mules during the Civil War," said Bartlow. "I was down in Kentucky. I was afraid to shoot that gun. I was just a kid. It was a big Belgian musket and it stood as high as my head. I loaded it with a one ounce ball but I never shot it."

YANKS HITTING THE BEACH IN NEW INVASION

AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN plunge through chest-high water to make their unopposed landing on the beach east of Toulon after leaving the LCIs in the background. The important naval base of Toulon is reported to be one of the main objectives in the current drive, and Allied forces are said to be moving to envelop it. Capture of the port would aid greatly in the landing of supplies and men for the proposed fight inland toward the juncture with Allied armies now battling their way toward Paris. Official U. S. Death Strikes Again In Sorrowful Home

HEMPSTEAD, L. I.—(INS)—Tragedy piled on tragedy for Dr. Arthur I. Kramer, and Mrs. Kramer of Hempstead, whose only child, 13-day-old Louise Ann Kramer, died after the mother, with the baby in her arms, slipped and fell down stairs.

On September 2, 1941, the Kramers' three-year-old daughter, Georgene, was burned to death by flames from an Army pursuit plane which crashed near their home. Georgene and two other children met their death as the plane, abandoned by its pilot, who had parachuted safely, landed near where they were playing and threw a sheet of flaming gasoline 50 feet across the street.

Several days after the accident, Mrs. Kramer wrote a long letter to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, describing the death of the children. Mrs. Roosevelt sent her a box of roses.

The second Kramer child to die, Louise Ann, suffered a fractured skull, landing on her head at the foot of the stairs after the fall. She had been home from the hospital only three days.

Rushed to a hospital in the car of Dr. Eugene Stanchi of Freeport, L. I., the baby succumbed three hours later.

THEY CAN HAVE IT
 NEW YORK—(INS)—Because of war demands, the Japs have limited certain furniture designs to one "war model" and raised prices on such household articles by approximately 60 per cent, the Tokyo home radio said in a broadcast heard by U. S. government monitors. The broadcast also stated that chests for keeping western-style clothes would be classed as "unpatriotic" and their manufacture would be discontinued.

Homeward Bound

When Mrs. Laura Varalli and her sister, Miss Anna De Russo, of Philadelphia, visited neighbors recently they were annoyed by the barking of several stray dogs. A few minutes later, after they'd returned home, they wished they had understood the pooches' message.

Thieves had ransacked the house and stolen $312 in money and jewelry.

The same day James T. Fielder, a druggist, admonished his 13-year-old fox terrier, Skippy, for barking. Fielder investigated when Skippy refused to pipe down, and saw two thieves fleeing the store.

The Northwest mounted police was organized in 1873.

The word "sheriff" comes from the old English title "shire-reeve."

Dozen Panzer Divisions Are Now In Pocket

By DON CAMPBELL
 (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Aug. 18.—The armor and personnel of more than a dozen German panzer and infantry divisions are in the "pocket" with the capture of Trun.

Some panzer units are known to have escaped. Brilliant strategy and the lightning development of tactical operations which have swung great claws not only around the cauldron but also around the hotpots of confused German troops to the east of Falaise may, however, result in a much bigger bag than was at first thought.

East of the river Dives we are rolling forward strong armored and infantry formations at impressive speed.

It is impossible to get an accurate assessment of the number of Germans and tanks inside the trap. Some say 100,000 men but more conservative estimates give the total as no more than half that.

The capture of Trun came after a sudden five miles sweep from Les Moutiers-en-Rue to the northwest. Resistance crumbled against the weight of the allied assault. No prepared German life had to be fought to reach the vital road junction and town of Trun and our casualties were light.

Our bridgehead across the river Dives is growing solidly and strong.

Further to the west very satisfactory progress has been made. British troops pushing south and southeast.

Here again it is not the Germans or any elaborate defenses which are determining the speed of the push so much as the very difficult terrain infested with mines and booby traps.

Santa Anita Track To Reopen

Army Closed Track Following Pearl Harbor Attack In December 1941

CUBS IN NEED OF SECOND GOOD HITTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(INS)—A rambling reporter (writing missions to himself) racing, they say, is coming back to Santa Anita this winter for the first time since December, 1941. That was the December when we were all doing the Skaters' Waltz on Polo sticks, fully expecting to be snook-punched again and meantime guarding against same with blackouts of the radio by day and the city incandescents at night.

It was also a time made memorable by the fact that Mr. Charles Trub, the general manager of a horse track, chose to disagree with Gen. John L. DeWitt (who was running the Pacific coast portion of a war on questions pertaining to military defense).

It was Mr. Trub's contention that the army had no right to close Santa Anita and they couldn't do that to him. Which only goes to show how ill advised it is for a general manager to be going around bickering with a general in the midst of a war. But of course the three-year lapse has been a little helpful in showing this too.

Meanwhile, the understanding is that Hollywood Park also expects to re-open next summer, giving the West Coast its first full time program of sports since the start of the war.

Hornsby Idle

Lee J. Murphy, who has been many things in many places, including business manager of St. Louis City in the Western League, has one interesting view on Chicago baseball. In fact, several.

He thinks, for instance, that a guy like Bill Nicholson isn't likely ever to be the man he should under the Cubs. But of course the three-year lapse has been a little helpful in showing this too.

Most of the good ones, at that have hit behind a man whose general, all around nuisance-value was equal to theirs. Like, say, Cobb and Crawford at Detroit; then Cobb and Veach and finally Cobb and Helmmuth, or in Ruth's case, they first tried him with Ping Bodie, but very sensibly shifted to Meusel.

Later, it was Ruth and Gehrig; then Gehrig and Di Maggio. And in the end, Di Maggio and Keller or Dickey.

About scouts, Murphy has this to say.

"Joe Mathis of St. Louis is tops with me but the best of them all isn't even working and that is our friend, Rogers Hornsby. He needs nothing but his eyes to judge a player and it's a shame he can't apply himself. But he has that great weakness and will never change."

If Mr. Murphy is talking about horse-playing, Mr. Hornsby will personally file a demurrer. He says the horses don't beat him. He beats the horses. In fact, were sure anybody can do it. Especially when equipped with a good, stout bullwhip.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

VAGRANT ISLAND

The Old Timers knew the exact location of the sunken island, an almost mythical rendezvous of the big fellows. He'd landed a fine string of wall-eyes there the previous day. So when we rowed out there and couldn't find it he swore it had dissolved overnight.

"It's a quarter of a mile long and about 80 feet wide and the weed tops aren't an inch below the surface," he affirmed. "You couldn't miss it in the dark."

Growing Late

"Well," I remarked after an hour's futile search, "it looks like we'll have a chance to prove whether we can locate your island after dark or not. It's past nine and no island yet."

"Just keep on prospecting around here," he encouraged, lolling back comfortably in the stern of the craft, puffing a pipe, while I toyed with the oars, mile after mile, it seemed to me.

"With a long trolling line out we're sure to hook onto some weeds pretty soon even if we can't see
'em, and that'll be the island."

Then he got a strike.

After the two-pound wall-eye had been landed we rowed back to where it had hit the June bug, and sure enough there were weeds gallow. How we missed them all this time was a puzzle. It was getting dark as pitch, well after 10 p. m.
and no more strikes.

Speculates

"Maybe they've gone up to the shoals," I speculated.

"Let's row toward shore and cast into the reeds."

We couldn't see the reeds, but we knew they were there. Shore line was blending rapidly with the black background of the piney hills.

"There's a deep hole between here and those reeds," the Old Timer remarked. "Little chance of a fish being in there now." But he continued to troll nevertheless. As he finished the remark a crappie struck and he hauled it in, a pound-and-a-half beauty.

Crappie Grabs!

"Throw out that anchor," the Old Timer yelled. "Where there's one there's more." I complied, but the weight hung futilely outside at the end of its 20-foot rope, not touching bottom. Hurriedly we batted out two extra rigs with small live minnows and began to pull in more crappies. The Old Timer laid his trolling rod carelessly across the gunnel, the June bug, now minus its minnow, dangling about six inches in the water. A big crappie grabbed it.

"When!" breathed by now somewhat less laconic friend. Altogether we captured five crappie before the boat drifted from the hole.
They averaged between 1½ and 1½ pounds. We're going to try the place by daylight if we can rediscover that elusive sunken island.

MARKET ADVANCES TO HIGHER GROUND

Gains As Much As Point Appear In List Today; Motors-Rails Get Attention

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The stock market today advanced to higher ground for the third straight session, gains of as much as a point appearing in the list. Trading volume was moderate with motors and rails receiving most attention.

Steels gained an average of 3/4 with Bethlehem up 1/2. Utilities were quiet and firm. Despite generally higher trend in the group, a sprinkling of fractional minus signs appeared in the rails.

General Motors edged ahead fractionally. Douglas Aircraft spurted about a point, equalling the year's high. Harvester and Anaconda Copper were up nearly a point. Montgomery Ward rose to a new high. Pullman strengthened nearly a point.

AS NAZIS SURRENDERED AT ST. MALO

THIS IS A TYPICAL SCENE in St. Malo, France, following the city's fall to the American forces. Here a group of German soldiers surrender to the Yanks. Signal Corps Radiophot (International Soundphoto)

NAZI TUNES ECHO IN DEBRIS

THROUGH BOMB WRECKED streets of Berlin marches a German band trying to boost the morale of the civilian population—or at least that's what a caption from a German magazine says about the above picture. An appropriate number might be "You Made Me What I Am Today"—and dedicated to the U. S. bombers. (International)

ALWAYS WANTED TO RIDE IN "JEEP"

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.

(INS)—"I always wanted to ride in one of them things," the wife of a Camp Carson soldier, said in explaining why she and her husband and two other soldiers "kidnaped" a light tank from a Colorado Springs war bond exhibit. Military police and local officers "re-captured" the tank when the woman, Mrs.

Ernest Rosenheimer, and the three soldiers, Pfc. Rosenheimer, Sgt. Arthur Rally and Corp. Jacob Appelhans, reached a dead-end street.

About 250,000 wives and babies of servicemen have received care under the emergency maternity and infant car program, according to the children's bureau of the U. S. department of labor.
